ACHS Athletic Hall of Fame adds three sports stars

Professional golfer, baseball coach and community leader honored

The new inductees to the Antioch Community High School Athletic Hall of Fame point to the diversity of sports and the community.

This year's inductees include basketball player Charles Wertz, baseball coach Jim Brownlee and golf pro Fred Hawkins Jr. They were added to the Hall of Fame at Friday's boys basketball game.

Charles Wertz graduated from the high school in 1929. He was a member of teams which captured three straight Northwest Suburban Conference titles.

"We made it to the district tournament two times against Waukegan and both went into overtime," Wertz recalled.

Wertz said basketball was the entertainment then.

"There was no TV. We had a big following," said Wertz.

He said playing with teammates helped him out later in life.

"It helped you work with people as a team rather than as individuals," Wertz said.

He added the team traveled to places like Bensenville and Palatine in Model T Fords.

"It took us quite a while because we could only go 15 miles an hour," he said.

He added the playing surfaces could be tricky. Wertz remembered Palatine had only a few areas where the roof was high enough to shoot the ball. In another school, the games were played on a stage.

"It was 4 feet off the ground so you watched where you were," Wertz chuckled.

Officials work to bring waterfront hotel to village

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

Antioch officials are working on bringing a hotel with water rights.

Claude LeMere, community development director, told trustees people at a trade show indicated that is something they are definitely looking for.

"They want a place on the water where they can put their boats," LeMere said. "They can bring their families."

"We are laying the groundwork for something," said Village Administrator Tim Wells.

Wells said nothing firm has been set up at this time.

There are no hotels which have water rights in the village.

However, the Chain o' Lakes bring flocks of tourists each summer, enough to keep a hotel quite busy.

LeMere added the village received a terrific response.

"We had hundreds of people come up and ask for information," LeMere said.

The village, Antioch Chamber of Commerce & Industry and the Fox Waterway Management Agency shared a booth at the Rosemont Recreation Show.

The added benefit to residents would be additional shopping generated for the downtown area and sales tax revenue.

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug said the village will still help in efforts to promote the Chain o' Lakes area as well as the village.

Administrator puts students' needs first

Mahaffy named assistant principal of the year by his peers

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

Working with children is something Tim Mahaffy treasures, getting recognized for it is just icing on the cake.

Mahaffy, of Antioch Upper Grade School, was tabbed Assistant Principal of the Year by his peers in the Lakes Region, which covers all of Lake County. He has worked as both a teacher and an administrator.

"There is not a day I don't want to come to work," Mahaffy said. "If it wasn't for working with children, it would be different. I don't think I could get out of bed."

He said one of his major challenges and rewards is working with students who are considered discipline problems, but change their lives for the better.

"We see kids who have discipline problems in the sixth grade, and you start seeing the light bulb turn on, and they start becoming responsible and reversing the trend. That is the ultimate reward," Mahaffy said.

He added, it's really the students who are the ones who should take the credit, because they are the ones who make the final choices.

Mahaffy has been with the district for three years as an assistant principal. He taught at Leavenworth, Kan., for one year and moved to Huntley to teach science before coming to Upper Grade.

He holds a bachelor's degree from Central Michigan and a masters degree from Northern Illinois. He is seeking a doctorate from National Lewis University.

Education became his field more by accident.

"In college I liked geography and history. I started thinking how I could keep in these fields. I liked

'There is not a day I don't want to come to work.'

working with children and felt I could translate my enthusiasm to the kids," Mahaffy said.

Working the job of assistant principal is one of varying responsibilities, everything from scheduling, tracking attendance to suspending students.

"I have to do 30 things at once.

But I always make time to work with a student and try to resolve conflicts," Mahaffy said.

Mahaffy added he feels the best part of working in Antioch Elementary District is the decision-making approach.

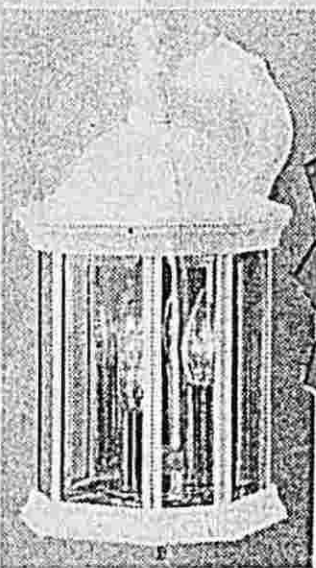

"Everyone from the superintendent to the principal makes decisions based on whether it's in the best interest for the children. It's child centered and doing what benefits the children," Mahaffy said.

Osmond campaign focuses on changing role

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Township Trustee Timothy Osmond is kicking off his campaign for township supervisor in high gear.

Osmond is talking to people he knows and is knocking on doors asking people what they want from their supervisor candidate. He also is educating people about township government.

"Township government isn't just for people who live in unincorporated areas; it's for all residents," Osmond said. "The people living in Lake Villa, Fox Lake and Antioch all are equally affected by township government."

Osmond added one of the key concerns people need to consider is the changing role of township government.

"With the changing welfare system, much of it will be transferred back to local government," Osmond said.

He added townships will need to work with state government to ensure they aren't saddled with unfunded state mandates. He stressed that he is familiar and has a working relationship with state officials who represent the Antioch area.

He mentioned the township supervisor is the treasurer of a large budget and feels he has the experience to deal with the financial aspect of running a township.

Osmond runs a company with a $3 million budget and has ran the business for 20 years.

Osmond is distributing literature, will be at a future Antioch Chamber of Commerce candidate forum, has two fund-raisers set up to meet residents and is going to as many doors as he can to get resident input.

He added one of things he would like to do as supervisor is to attempt to bring more businesses to the unincorporated areas.

He believes in open government and providing more access to information.

"We don't have anything to hide. We should publicize what is going on," Osmond said.

Osmond encourages residents to come to two fund-raisers planned. One of them is Feb. 18 at Mueller's Harbor Lights from 6-8 p.m. and the other is at the Best Western, March 6.

He is a two-term trustee. He serves as chief of the Antioch Rescue Squad. He is a member of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, Antioch Lions Club and Antioch Rotary.

He is opposed on the April 1 ballot by activist Carole Jonites, president of United Homeowners Association of Unincorporated Antioch. She also is president of Felter's Homeowners Association.

Candidate off the township ballot

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Township trustee race is down one candidate after Phillip Burgdorf was thrown off the ballot by the Township Electoral Board.

Burgdorf's petition papers were challenged by another candidate, Steven Smouse. Burgdorf failed to have his petition papers notarized and his individual petitions notarized, according to Township Clerk Richard Harlan, an electoral board member.

Harlan added Burgdorf didn't appear at the hearing called on Jan. 28.

"Case law is pretty clear; if you don't show up you almost have to rule in favor of the objections," Harlan said.

Harlan added the board ruled on the notarization issue as the reason to throw Burgdorf off the ballot.

It was a unanimous 3-0 vote. Also on the board were Supervisor Jim Fields and Trustee Richard Kufalk.

He said there were two trustee candidates who were challenged in 1993, but the board ruled in their favor because the attorney advised them they could appeal and win in court.

Burgdorf didn't file an appeal to the ruling.

The field has been narrowed to incumbent Trustees Judith Davis and Claudette Skvarce along with newcomers Steven Smouse, Roy Sackschewsky, and Wanda Schaefer for four seats.

Kufalk decided not to run and Tim Osmond is running for supervisor.

Voters will make their choice on April 1.

Library works to solve parking problems

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Antioch Library officials are hopeful parking is not a problem this spring and summer.

With only 24 parking spaces, parking is a concern during baseball events. Signs in the parking lot clearly state no parking for Antioch Township Baseball, but these signs are at times ignored and cause frustration for library patrons, according to Kathy LaBuda, library director.

This year, village, library and baseball officials are working together to resolve parking issues before they start.

"The parents in the Little League fill the parking lot and people who just want to use the library are upset they have to walk to the library because there is no place to park," LaBuda said.

As a compromise, the library will allow the league to park in the upper lot, which it owns, in exchange for the village installing lights in another section.

"Some of our staff are older and are concerned about their safety," LaBuda said.

There is also a gated area which has been used for many years as a pedestrian walkway. Officials were concerned about opening it up to traffic.

"Everyone's safety is what is most important," LaBuda said.

LaBuda added the compromise will work as long as all parties follow the plan.

ACHS takes a cautious approach towards combined school issue

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community High School Board members were updated on the status of a collaborative effort aimed at finding a school solution for all the feeder elementary districts and the high school.

Board members and administration are taking a cautious approach to the Northwest Educational Group wanting to find out more information regarding the multiple overlapping school boundaries as they relate to the Antioch, Lindenhurst and Lake Villa communities.

"It's a very complex issue," said Superintendent Dennis Hockney. "I'm not sure where it's going."

For a year, Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst village officials, chamber officials and representatives from Antioch, Emmons, Grass Lake, Lake Villa and Millburn elementary districts have met with high school officials seeking a solution to the impending space crunch which also would honor community bonds.

A report by consultant Charles Carruso, the former Deerfield superintendent, outlined the operating costs of five different school solutions. They will be further discussed at the Feb. 26 meeting at Lake Villa administrative complex.

"It's getting more complex. It's taken many years to get to this point and we are not going to find a solution overnight," Hockney said.

From a long range planning standpoint, the board has already agreed to take a two-campus format. The planning group is exploring an option to add all the feeder districts and create a large unit district. Another plan calls for two separate unit districts with the Antioch elementary districts attending Antioch High School and creating a separate unit district for Lake Villa and Millburn.

At this time, the planning group is attempting to narrow down the options to reach two best alternatives and studying them further.

The impact to high school taxpayers would depend on which elementary district they reside in.

ACHS seniors to shadow professionals

Dennis Hockney, superintendent of Antioch Community High School and the vocational education chairman for the Antioch Rotary Club—Antioch Community High School Senior Career Shadowing Day has been set for Tuesday, April 15. This is the third annual Senior Career Shadowing Day and, according to Hockney, the previous two were rated as very successful by both the participating students and area professionals.

Hockney said the Senior Career Shadowing Day provides an opportunity to area business, education and governmental leaders to become involved with senior students at Antioch Community High School in a very meaningful way. He said, "This has become an event our senior students look forward to. It gives them the opportunity to get a first hand look at a profession in which they have an interest." He said that for the area youth of today have as well as giving the professional who participates it provides an opportunity to get to know just how much potential the high school youth of today have as well as giving the professional person an opportunity to participate in a very worthwhile educational program.

Hockney said that over the past two years more than 50 persons each year have given freely of their time and talents to work with the Antioch Rotary Club an seniors at ACHS, and that he hoped even more business, education and government leaders would become involved this year.

A survey of the senior class by counselor Michelle Tadelman showed seniors were interested in a variety of careers including: accounting, actuarial science, advertising, airline careers, animal behavior science, animator, archeologist, architecture artist, audiology, biologist, broadcaster, business management, chemist, chiropractor, computer careers, construction, cosmetology, criminal justice, dentist, editor, educator, electrician, engineer, environmentalist, fashion design, film production, firefighter, funeral director, golf professional, hotel management, journalist, law enforcement, lawyer, merchandising, musician, nurse, optometrist, photographer, plumber, physician, psychologist, real estate, social worker, stock broker, travel agent, truck driver, veterinarian, writer, zoologist.

Any business, education or governmental leader willing to give one day of their time to helping one or more senior students explore a career may call Hockney at 395-1424, extension 210 for details.

Railroad to modify policies after train derails in Gurnee

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Officials of the Union Pacific Railroad will be in closer contact with Gurnee police and fire department officials if any future incidents occur on their property.

A derailment caused more than $40,000 in damage to products in some 14 cars just before 3 a.m., Feb. 7. Gurnee Fire Dept. officials were dismayed that they were not notified immediately.

The tracks are located in an area east of Clearview Ct., near an industrial park.

"We should have been notified," Lt. Tim Tanner said.

"The damage was just to equipment — it did not involve a hazardous materials fire, deaths or injuries or blocking of a public street. But I have told our personnel to talk to the fire chief (Tim McGrath) if there is any future incident," Ed Trandahl, spokesperson for Union Pacific Railroad said. "Certainly if there was any endangerment to public safety, they would have been called."

According to a Gurnee police report, the incident took place at 2:45 a.m. Spill from the cars included soy bean oil, flour, mixed foods, canned corn, and millet. There was no vandalism or sabotage, authorities believe.

There were 59 train cars parked near a Gurnee industrial park. All but 12 had contents and there were two engines. As of Monday, the estimated loss is $48,300. The cause is listed as a piece of metal from a car falling off between the wheel and rail.

"There was no health hazard or danger to the community at all," Tanner said.

An image-saving birthday wish

A special birthday wish

This birthday wish goes out to young Brandon Abear from his mom. Now Brandon, who will be turning 8 on Feb. 17, just happens to be the son of the infamous columnist Donna Abear who authors the "Life's a Bear" column published weekly in this very publication.

Now Donna wanted to publicly wish her son a "happy birthday," not only because she feels, as a mom, it's the proper way to embarrass the bajebers out of him but she also would like to polish up the rather tainted image that has been plaguing her lately.

Seems the public hasn't been too kind in its opinion of her and her ramblings the past few weeks. Donna shared some of her personal thought on this matter, and I must say the poor woman has been losing sleep over the unkind things that have been published about her and her talents. She has taken it all quite personally. She said her husband, her close friends, and even her dear mother-in-law, have been very supportive during her fall in popularity, which is comforting to know. But, one also has to remember that the comments printed in Lip Service are, after all, done quite anonymously, so who's to say exactly who has been making such derogatory remarks about the writer. Could it perhaps be one of those most openly supporting her?

But why go that route and make oneself paranoid and suspicious. Of course, I too, have had my own name dragged through the mud at the hands of this witless one, but I figure whoever out there has enough time on their hands to call in and state their opinions via the telephone, really has too much free time and perhaps could better put to use the family counseling they suggested I get. You have to wonder which one of us it is who is leading the (and I quote them directly) "pathetic and meaningless" life.

At least I express my opinions openly. Mine even come with that lovely photo that I charge nothing extra for. I want to know how a total stranger can judge what kind of life I lead. Unless, of course, they are basing their entire, slanted opinion on my beautifully enhanced photo. Whatever happened to, not judging a book by its cover, no matter how unattractive it may seem?

My solution to this lonely soul's despair is to simply have them take hold of the bottom corner of the paper and "turn the page." Now that doesn't require a whole lot of skill, just a whole lot of common sense. Why would you read something you thought was offensive or uninteresting? Why that would be like going through the agony of eating a big old bowl full of pickled brussel sprouts. Of course, people with little or no sense of humor probably enjoy brussel sprouts.

But, I am getting off the subject here. The whole point of Donna's call wasn't so she could maybe, possibly, regain some of her self-respect and confidence, which has sadly slipped away, but the point of her call was to wish young mister Brandon a "Happy Birthday."

Now she also briefly, very briefly, mentioned in passing that it also happened to be the birthday of that bald-headed, Michael Jordan guy that she is so smitten with and is always writing about. She only mentioned the similar birthday fact and really made no other reference to the idol which she has dedicated a small shrine to in her dining room. She sort of figured if she went down that road, well it might make her look bad, as a mom, in the public eye, and on top of everything else, well that is not the road she wished to venture down.

No, she just wanted to wish her cherished son a "Happy Birthday." And Brandon, in the event that mom is unable to muster up enough strength to drag herself out from the bathroom in which she has been holed up crying for the last several weeks, mom says "Happy Birthday."

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."—don't forget to call 395-6364.

Hooved Animal Humane Society sets Craft 'n' Tack fund-raiser

The Hooved Animal Humane Society, a non-profit organization dedicated to the protection of hooved animals, is hosting its annual "Tack N' Craft Sale." The purpose of the sale is to raise funds for feed and veterinary care for starved and neglected hooved animals that have been impounded, as well as promote awareness throughout the United States.

The fundraiser will be held at the HAHS Rehabilitation Farm, 10804 McConnell Rd., in Woodstock. General Public is invited. The date of the sale is Saturday, April 5, and will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The event will take place rain or shine. Ample parking is available. A $1 donation at the door will go towards purchasing equipment for the educational center. Persons interested in exhibitor space should contact Sheila Eiler at (815) 337-5563 for more information.

Last year approximately 30 exhibitors participated in the event. There will be a variety of new and used tack, horse equipment, clothing, jewelry, art, craft items, and much more.

HAHS is accepting donations of clean tack and apparel. Anyone donating items is entitled to a tax deduction to the full extent of the law. Donees should contact HAHS if they are interested in donating tack or other equestrian-related items.

HAHS purchased a 26-acre farm in Woodstock, in the fall of 1989. The realization of an 18-year dream, this much needed rehabilitation/adoption and educational facility is an exciting "new beginning" and serves as National Headquarters. HAHS is committed to aiding other states in their quest to fight neglect and abuse of hooved animals. HAHS depends on the financial support and concern of local communities.

Gardening author to speak on natural landscaping

Sara Stein may not be an author familiar to most people, but in the world of natural landscaping, native flowers and grasses, and natural habitats, she speaks from the heart, and from experience.

Stein made the leap from conventional lawns and traditional thinking about landscaping to a broader experience. As a gift to her son, Noah, she gradually turned her own manicured lawn and yard in Pound Ridge, Westchester County, New York, into a natural haven for songbirds, butterflies, hummingbirds, children and other living things by using native grasses, flowers, shrubs and trees.

Her successes and failures and the lessons she learned about nature are set down in her 1993 landmark book, "Noah's Garden: Restoring the Ecology of our Own Back Yards." The American Gardener magazine says "Noah's Garden" is considered by many as one of the most influential gardening books of the last decade.

Stein will be the featured speaker on Saturday, Feb. 22 at the Annual Natural Landscaping Seminar to be held at the McHenry County College Conference Center, Route 14 and Lucas Road, Crystal Lake. She will discuss "Noah's Garden" and her new book (due in March) "Planting Noah's Garden: Further Adventures in Backyard Ecology." This 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. seminar is sponsored by the Wildflower Preservation and Propagation Committee of the McHenry County Defenders, the McHenry County Conservation District, and McHenry County College. The $30 fee will include a hot lunch for registrations received on or before Feb. 14. For registrations received after that date lunch will be on your own.

Additional speakers will focus on theme of "Attracting Wildlife to Your Yard by Using Native Plants." Scott Craven of the University of Wisconsin at Madison will discuss "Living with Wildlife;" Robert Ahrenhoerster, owner of Prairie Seed Source, North Lake, Wis., will discuss "Insects in the Prairie and Insect Folklore," and Brad Woodson, Restoration Ecologist for the McHenry County Conservation District will discuss "Attracting Birds to Your Yard Through Native Plants." Exhibitors will be on hand to answer your questions and will have free literature available and offer books and others items for sale.

For more information, call the McHenry County Defenders office at (815) 338-0393, or send your $30 check marked "WPPC seminar" to the Defenders office at 132 Cass St., Woodstock, IL 60098.

Studio aims to take fear out of Internet

A new business is opening in Antioch which is designed to help the computer literate and the not-so literate.

Lake Online owners say they are here to help those who want to build Web pages and assist those who may not have a computer and would like to know more about the Internet.

"We wanted to create a place with an atmosphere where people could find out what the Internet is all about, even if they don't have a computer," said Judith Kallos, webmaster.

"So many people are intimidated into disregarding this exciting technology; which for a small business person could be an opportunity lost. If done correctly, a Web site evens the field for small enterprises on the Internet," she said.

One of the most popular sites in the county is on Lake Online's Lake County IL Hot Spot on the WWW located on <http://www.lake-online.com>.

The site features a market place which offers the opportunity of local exposure for area businesses to thousands of visitors. It is averaging 40,000 hits per month.

"It's the best of both worlds. Not only do you get the global exposure the Internet provides you but you can tap onto those interested in what Lake County has to offer on a regional level at the same time," Kallos said.

Lake Online insures that all the Web sites can be picked up on the Internet through major search engines or directories.

The company provides the latest in software and training to help businesses with their pages.

The studio is located at 391 Main Street. Live online instructions are available. The studio is open from 10 a.m.-7 p.m. Monday-Friday and 10 a.m.-2 p.m. on Saturdays.

Those who just want to "surf" the Web are also welcome.

Warren controls tempo downs Antioch girls

There was some good news for Antioch after three quarters of the game at Warren High.

The Sequoits struggled throughout, suffering a 40-24 loss. The visitors did not hit double digits until midway in the third quarter.

The good news for coach Dave Woods' team is the game was not the last before the sectional tournament begins.

"We scheduled the make-up game on purpose for that reason - to have a game to work on some things before facing Mundelein," ACHS coach Dave Woods said.

The Sequoits showed their patience on offense early on, but Warren applied pressure on defense on the wings and gained a spurt early. ACHS (9-14, 5-9 NSC) faces Mundelein at home on Feb. 17.

"We could have slowed the game down but we got some turnovers and got further behind and then we had to play catch-up and we cannot play catchup basketball," Woods said.

Caryn Poliquin scored 13 points and 10 rebounds as she continued to become a late-season shooter.

"I have been working on it. I come early to practice and work on it all the time. We all had to take our game to a whole new level after Tiffany Kelter went down (with a season ending knee injury). I knew I had to step it up and I did," Poliquin, one of the seniors honored at senior night said.

WTHS finishes with a 11-3 record in conference and 21-5 heading into the tournament opener against Round Lake.

Carrie Gofron was coming off a 19-point effort against Zion. But the heads-up WTHS defense held her to one field goal: "We run a 2-3 zone we may not be a very tall team, but we clog up that middle," Poliquin said. "We wanted to play well tonight because it was senior night and for Tiffany."

"We know she is their best player. We all set our defense around her. We always made sure we had someone in her face," Warren coach Bruce Campbell said.

"Caryn came through. It was her fourth game in a row in double figures. We had to make sure that you stay with them. They run that pattern offense so well," Campbell said.

"We have a lot of things to work on in the next week before the tournament. I thought we held our composure," Campbell said. "We had to hurry the game up."

Even when the game was lopsided, Warren showed its skills on defense. Senior Amy Van Camp went coast-to-coast with a lay-up. "Going coast-to-coast is my game - although I don't always score," she said.

Sequoits drive 'Mack' through MHS

Using a variety of weapons, Antioch High earned a split in two North Suburban Conference games, falling to Lake Forest but bouncing back with a win over Mundelein.

Antioch beat Mundelein 56-49 and lost to Lake Forest 78-65 in hopes for a strong finish in NSC play.

Josh Mack, a 6-foot, 2-inch junior forward, scored 12 points and Chris Groh led the way with 16 as the Sequoits led early then hung on Saturday at Mundelein.

"Mack came off the bench and did a nice job. He got some quality minutes as he has gotten his confidence back," ACHS coach Jeff Dresser said.

Another factor in Antioch's (9-13, 4-7 NSC) favor was defense. "Our defense did a good job. We kept their perimeter game down. They were only 5-of-21 for three's," Dresser said.

Kevin Chudd scored six points, but his perimeter defense against Doug Rippberger's talents from beyond the three-point mark slowed Mundelein. Rippberger had 19 points, but only one three-point basket. Dave Gooch, who scored 12 points, also helped out there.

"We struggled early, but we came back. We played hard," Mundelein coach Perry Wilhelm said.

Eric Levernier added 11 points for the Mustangs, who had an off-night from the perimeter.

Earlier in the week, Lake Forest downed Antioch by 13 points with a 46-point second half. Mike Nielsen led the way for ACHS as the 6-3 junior forward scored 14 points. Gooch added 12.

Sequoit grapplers overcome injuries

Injuries have been a lot like snow this winter for Antioch High's wrestling team.

You know it is coming, the question is when.

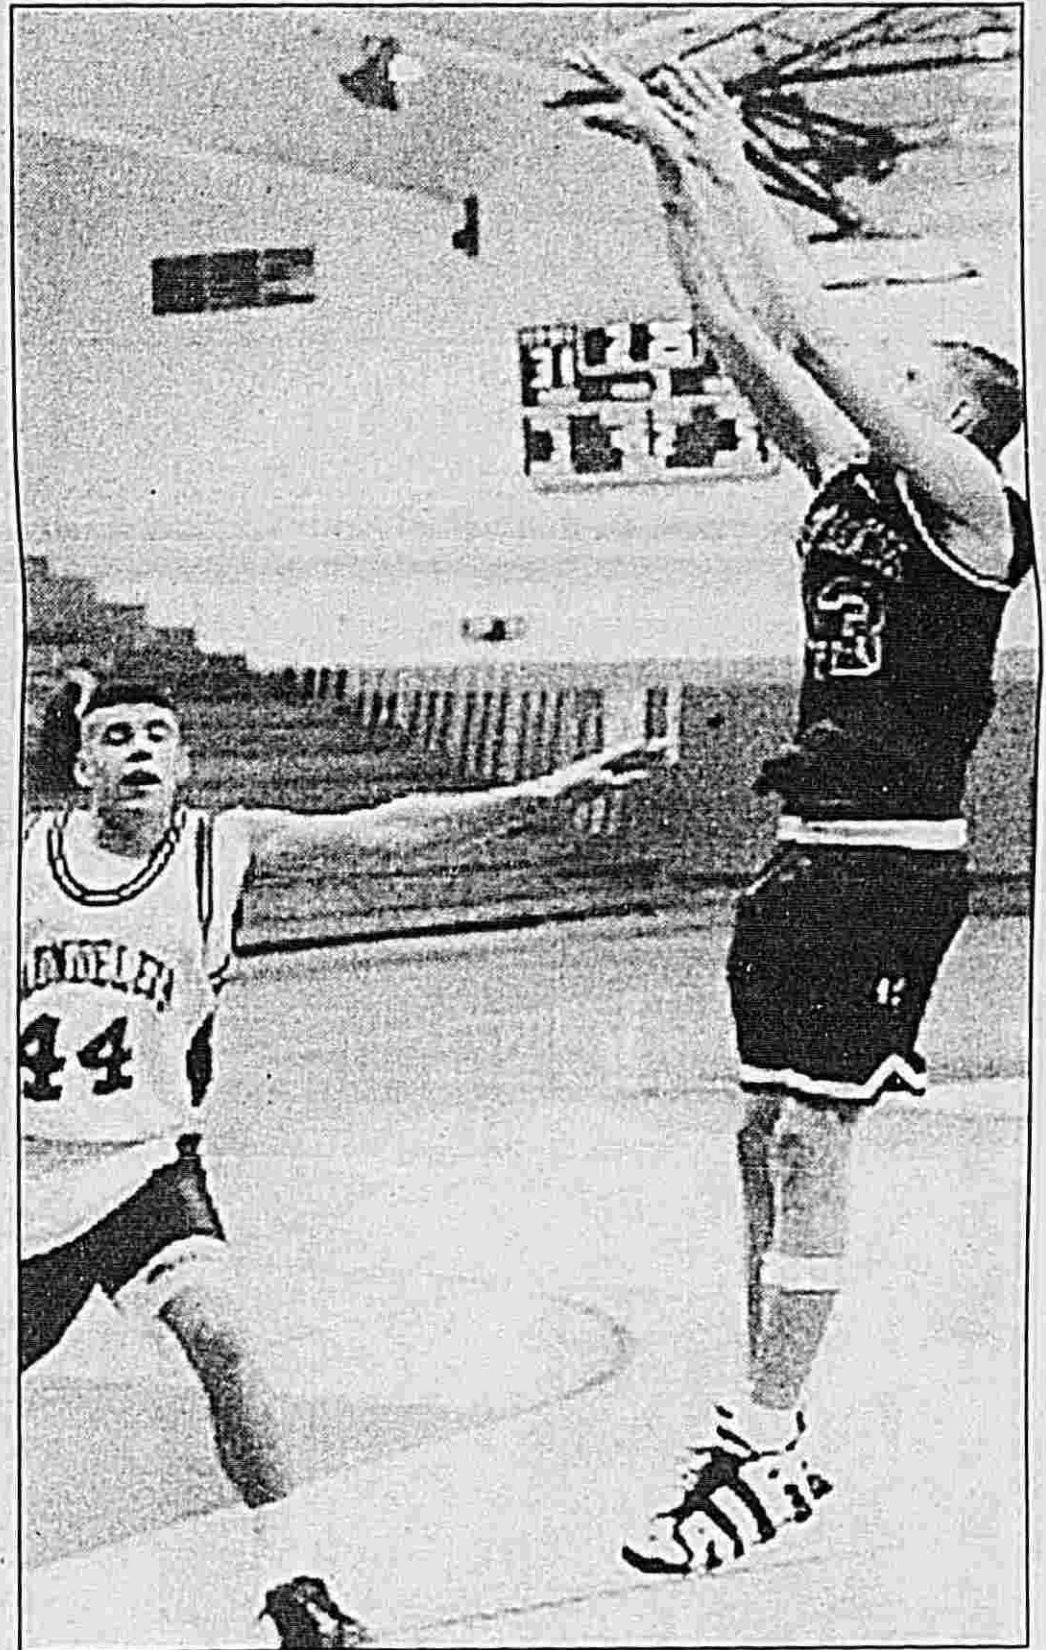

Ryan Hlinak injured a shoulder at the close of a practice this week. Coach Ted Sieckowski decided to hold the 103 pounder out of the Antioch regional matches, but the Sequoits still managed a third-place finish with 112 pounds.

Sectional qualifiers, the top three finishers in each weight class, advance to the sectional meet at Conant in Hoffman Estates Feb. 14-15.

"There is no doubt he would have won matches in the tournament. It happened five seconds before the end of practice on a move he has done a thousand times."

Rettig leads CLC effort; Lancers drop two

Home was not where the wins were for College of Lake County's mens basketball team as the Lancers dropped two more Skyway Conference games.

The Lancers fell 81-65 to 90-81 before losing to Waubesa 81-65.

The defense improved against Waubesa, according to assistant coach Paul Missavage.

Waubesa claimed the win with a 20-point effort at the free-throw line: in the second half.

Doug Rettig had 10 points and 4 blocked shots for CLC (7-19, 3-5 Skyway).

John Mikels led the way with 14 points and Kelan Williams had 12 as did Dan Riepie.

"We wanted to slow down their outside game, but their guards hurt us a little," Dresser said.

The Scouts' Tyler Smith scored 13 of his 35 points in the third period.

"Nielsen was 7-of-9 from the field. He had a good shooting game," Dresser said.

ACHS cut the Scouts lead to five points and the crowd which welcomed members to the school's hall-of-fame thought the Sequoits could pull off the upset. But the Scouts held on.

ACHS is at North Chicago Feb. 14.

Earlier in the week, a 79-66 win by the Antioch Sequoits over the Northwest Suburban Conference leader Grant Bulldogs may prove to be just the remedy the Sequoits needed.

"After four losses in a row, we needed this. We have been stuck on seven wins for a long time," Dresser said.

The one-two punch of 25 points from Groth and 23 from Gooch were just too much for the Bulldogs to overcome.

"Gooch's 23 took pressure off Groth," Dresser said.

Antioch entertained the home crowd with a 12-point lead in the second half.

"We did not get enough stops on defense to win. We missed a lot of backboard shots. I was pleased with Wayne Bosworth and Mike Preble," Grant coach Tom Maple said.

The question of the hour after the Antioch win would be the impact on the Waukegan sectional seeds the next night.

"The regional is weak this year and the middle is real mushy. One loss should not change the way people think about a 13-win season," Maple said.

The Sequoits' top two scorers had plenty of help. Chudd chipped in with 9 points. Nielsen and Don Lackey had 8 each for the winners. Lackey had 6 against Mundelein.

Wayne Bosworth, a freshman, led the Bulldogs (14-7 overall) with 19 and Dave Fries had 17.

"We were in control most of the second half," Dresser said.

The two teams will meet again in the first round of the Waukegan sectional. ACHS gained the ninth seed while Grant won the home game with the eighth seed.

"We know some of what each other likes to do. We have to keep getting quality play," Dresser said.

Mundelein is the No. 14th seed at the Waukegan sectional and will play Lake Forest the first round.

"They are playing well and have a couple of good weapons in Smith and their perimeter game," Wilhelm said.

sand times before. But he will recover, he is a freshman and we did not want to risk his career by having him try and go today," Sieckowski said.

"Anytime you have an injury like that to one of your team's leaders, it does have an impact on everyone - the parents the coaches. We did a pretty good job of battling back from it. Ryan would have scored 18 points here, which could have closed the gap," Sieckowski said.

Jake Crammond, a sophomore with just one varsity win coming into the regional and gained third place at 140 pounds. "He has been coming on. He keeps learning like a sponge every week and he is a very tough kid," Sieckowski said.

Tim Cizanskas is making his second trip to the sectional meet. He finished third at 189 pounds and is 22-12 overall.

Third seed Steve Smart battled his own shoulder injury and took third at 160 pounds.

Joe Brandimore won at 130 pounds and takes a 25-win season to Barrington. "Joe showed his experience - he is just a tough kid. He understands mat strategies and that is important," Sieckowski said.

Bob English was third at 112 after losing a close battle to Tony Nelson of Grant 10-9.

Another junior, Jeff Ultes, is 29-1 after winning by injury default over Grant's Adam Butler at 171 pounds.

Grant, with 182 points and Grayslake advanced to the team regional round, hosted by Grant.

Apaches' defense keys bid as state qualifier

Antioch Upper Grade School's boys basketball team gained a narrow win over Lake Zurich North to close to within one game of the state tournament.

AUGS won 44-43 for the regional title after beating Lake Zurich 36-30 in the first round.

Leading scorers in the championship game were: Eric White with 14 points; Justen Kent had 12 and Brandon White Added 11.

"The key to the game was we made 16 of 20 free-throw attempts," coach Kurt Duehr said.

The Apaches could see early on they would be a force in the conference, where they were 12-0. "The whole key was defense," the coach said.

The team, 18-1, faced a DeKalb-Huntley contingent at Grayslake Middle School for the right to play in the Peoria area for the state grade school tournament.

Twin brothers Eric and Brandon White, who combined for 25 points in the title game, are complimented by guards Erick Langer and Bryant Popp; rebounding specialist Mike Perrone; defensive specialist Matt Peterson and three-point shooter Mike Baba.

Also on the team are: Nick Ramig, Brad Crommeans, Chris Ragalla, Luke Stahl, Tyler Edgell, Curt Whittington, Randy Wittig; Jay Warner; and manager Kyle Fiedler.

Gofron's shooting, ACHS defense shuts down Zion

Antioch High used stiff defense in the middle quarters to earn a comfortable lead against Zion-Benton and pull for a 12-point North Suburban Conference win.

The Sequoits bounced back from an upset at the hands of North Chicago for a 42-30 win. Carrie Gofron had 19 points to lead the way.

"The key to the Zion game was we only allowed five points in the second and third quarters. We pulled them out of their zone and ran out motion offense. We were taking high percentage shots and Carrie's shot is starting to come around now," Antioch coach Dave Woods said.

The Sequoits limited their turnovers while causing many by Zion with good defense, Woods said.

Zion led 9-7 after one, but ACHS regained the lead 15-14 at halftime. ACHS led 27-19 after three. ACHS was 10-of-15 for free-throws.

ACHS improved to 9-13 overall, 5-8 in the NSC.

Antioch finished the regular season at Warren High on Saturday - a team without starting point guard Tiffany Kever, out due to a knee injury.

Grant downs Rams in NWSC title hunt

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

It was a purposeful Grant High contingent which came to Grayslake and seek a win in the only Northwest Suburban Conference gym which had not done so.

These Bulldogs are familiar with each other's skills and personalities and the mix has allowed the team to close in on another NWSC crown - the last in league history.

A 21-12 run to eliminate Grayslake from the title picture and post a 58-39 win did just that for Grant.

"We have been playing basketball together since the sixth grade," senior Dave Fries said.

It was indeed a Deep Freeze that the Bulldogs had the Rams trying to find answers to Friday. A 38-22 bulge in rebounds spelled the difference, even when the Rams made their attacks.

Fries finished with 17 points, 12 in the final quarter. He is the twin of Phil Fries, and coach Tom Maple says for their freshmen year, he could not tell them apart.

Fries has the ability to penetrate and know just when to shoot the ball. "I can get a better shot if I just fake," he said.

"I just worked hard on blocking out my man and getting rebounds," Kirk Johnson said. Johnson was thrust into the starting center role when Chris Gallimore was injured in mid-season. Johnson scored six points and Gallimore eight and the two combined for more than a dozen rebounds from the pivot position.

"Coach always stresses backboards, backboards and backboards in practice. If we do not block our man out, he puts out to the side makes us run the 'ladder'." We always try and box out hard," Fries said.

Revenge for a first-round loss to the Rams at Grayslake was on the minds of these Bulldogs. "By the third round, you know each other pretty well - we knew what we had to do. We wanted to contain Dan Domutz and Chris Wirsing (a combined six points)," Fries said.

"We did exactly what we wanted to do, but we were 4-of-20 in the paint," Rams coach Greg Groth said.

Grant hosts Johnsbury Feb. 14 and Round Lake Feb. 18. Grayslake is at Round Lake Feb. 14 and hosts Wauconda Feb. 18.

Romance writer finds her Knight in shining armor

'You're being put on the spot; you're standing in front of 800 women, and they ask, 'What do you feel is romantic?' A lot of men can't even do that in front of one person, or their wife, or girlfriend let alone 800 women,' said Leland Burbank

Leslie Metcalf and Leland Burbank, both of Wauconda, make a striking couple in real life and even better material for Leslie's romance novels. Leslie, 29, attends the Romantic Times convention held every 18 months, for romance writers and fans. Her favorite subject, Leland, 28, has tagged along for the last two conventions. This past November at the convention in New Orleans, Leland entered the Mr. Romance Cover Novel competition and won Reader's Choice. He also is a knight by profession at Medieval Times in Schaumburg.

If all goes as planned, the two are poised to take the romance novel industry by storm. Leslie hopes to have one of her novels published soon and Leland thinks it would be nice if he got a cover model contract.

Were their paths star crossed? Leslie started writing about six years ago, the same time Leland began his job as a knight at Medieval Times. They didn't know each other at the time.

"It's just so ironic that he winds up being a knight as a profession. I couldn't have planned that," she said of his job.

In Leslie's opinion, the Readers Choice award may be more valuable over the course of time because it means the person is what readers really want in a cover, rather than the first prize winner who received a contract to model on one romance novel cover.

During the cover model competition, Leland went through a rigorous interview process and Leslie said some of his answers even made her cry.

Leland was asked why he would want to be on a romance novel cover.

"Basically I said because of my lady love. She got me into the industry and there's no better way I could thank her or repay her than by being on the cover of her novel. She always talked about me being the inspiration of some of her books..." Leland said of his response to the question at the competition.

They both went to the convention with separate agendas. There they saw and met many well known authors including Ann Rice, Marilyn Campbell, Tamara Leigh and many others whose works grace book store shelves. Leland wanted to be seen by industry professionals who may be looking for a cover model and Leslie wanted her books to get noticed.

Leslie is very focused on her writing and said one of her main goals has always been to be published by the time she turns 30. She said her family thinks she's a little nutty for writing romance novels, but she enjoys it and wants to give people a way to escape when they come home from a day at the office.

Leslie is adamant about Leland being her own cover model when her first book is published.

"I will get something published and he will be on cover," she said. "There's no better person to represent my hero."

Leland, the ever present hero said, "I'll talk her out of it... if I can't be on the cover I'm not going to let her throw it away."

Competing against 17 other men in the cover model competition didn't go to this knight's head. Leland seemed to handle the fame well.

"You're being put on the spot; you're standing in front of 800 women, and they ask, 'What do you feel is romantic?' A lot of men can't even do that in front of one person, or their wife, or girlfriend let alone 800 women," he explained.

The Romantic Times convention is actually produced by the publication of the same name out of New York. Leslie said the magazine can be purchased at many book stores and features reviews of romance writers and articles about the romance genre.

The magazine had a small article on Leland in December and will likely keep readers posted on his progress.

The former Reader's Choice winner for two years in a row prior to Leland, Sean O'Brien has been on several book covers of well known authors and Leland and Leslie are hoping that will become a trend.

The secret of his success with the reader's is credited by Leland to his love of talking with people. He felt many of the other contestants looked like they just stepped off the cover of a romance novel, but his personality helped win the fans over.

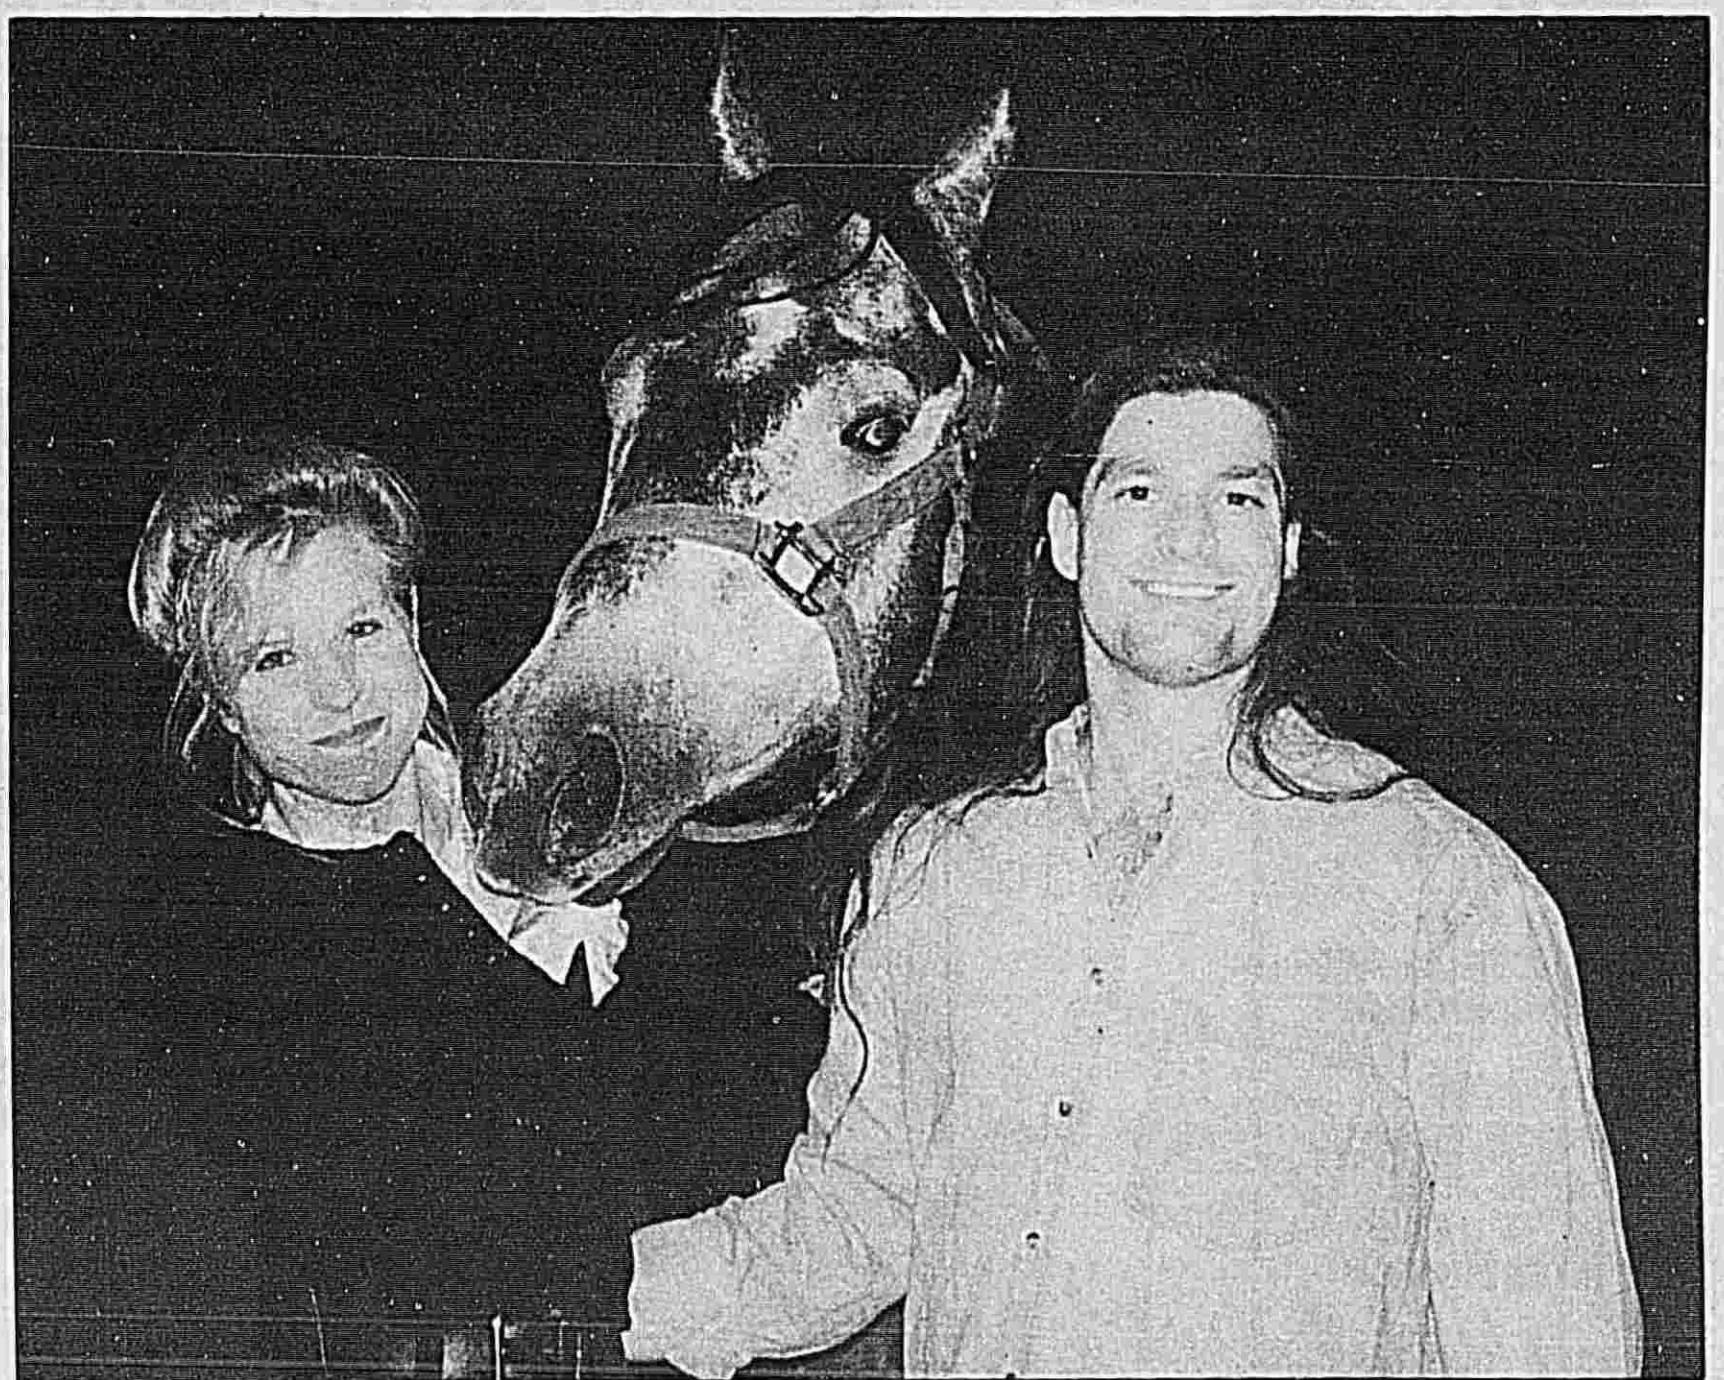

"I knew I was supposed to be the center of attention, but I didn't want to be conceited, so I just talked to people and found they just wanted to get to know me," he explained.

In the competition, Leland portrayed a character off the cover of a novel by Annee Cartier, about a vampire in the portion known as the "pose down," where the men simulated a pose which would grace the cover of a romance novel.

"The Computer Center at the Kohl Children's Museum has been designed to encourage both adults and children to use computers and learn new skills—from one another and from the computers," says Exhibit Director Mary Sinker about the newly installed 12-computer center featuring creative learning software selected by the museum education staff members.

Rather than focusing on finite skills such as colors, numbers and letter recognition, the selected software allows visitors to explore artistic expression and to build a foundation in understanding art.

The Motorola StarMax Technology Center will remain as a permanent exhibit with future ideas to expand it to include youth-run workshops and satellite centers to underserved neighborhoods.

Bicycling Through Bermuda

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Born in October of 1931, the Bermuda Railway lived only 17 years, making its final run in 1946. Seems the popularity of the automobile put "Old Rattle and Shake", as it was affectionately known, out of business.

This short lived Railway did, however, leave behind a memorial.

Starting from Old St. George's to Somerset, a single track trail still cuts westward through 21 miles of this 27 mile long island providing an ideal bicycle trail.

As you cycle past seascapes, forests of spice trees and jungle-like foliage you can almost hear a ghostly train whistle. There are plenty of opportunities to cool off if you want to swim the few gaps past the pylons that once supported the train trestles.

In fact, if you're really into the "fitness thing" you can do your own mini triathlon. You can jog the 21 mile Railway Trail, swim the open section between Ferry Point Park and Coney Island (not the one in New York) and bicycle 25 miles back on the paved South Road route.

For the rest of us, the Old Bermuda Railway Trail is just fine for a leisurely bicycle ride or relaxing walk.

Bermuda's weather also makes it an excellent choice for long bike rides. Located about 800 miles off the coast of North Carolina (No, it's not in the Caribbean) it's far enough north so that summer temperatures rarely rise above the mid 80's. While not as warm as Jamaica in January, the Gulf Stream keeps winter temperatures in the upper 60's.

The Bermuda Department of Tourism has an excellent brochure of the trail complete with photos and section by section map. I can't seem to get them to send me more than one at a time, but you can get one from them directly by calling 1-800-223-6106 and ask for the "Bermuda Railway Trail Brochure".

PM&L's 'Lion in Winter' proves any family can have its ups and downs Theatre goers will be pleasantly surprised by the quality of acting in PM&L's production of "The Lion of Winter," by James Goldman. Quick wit dialogue, deception, and plenty of backstabbing is what audiences will experience at the theatre located at 877 Main St., Antioch.

As the theatre darkens, the audience is relaxed awaiting the start of the evening's entertainment; the plot begins. Time: Christmas 1183. Place: King Henry's castle in Chinon, France. The scene begins with Henry II, King of England, superbly played by Mark Kettner of Paddock Lake, Wis. telling his love, Richard, that she must marry his son, Richard, and become the next queen. Alias, a French Princess, sweetly portrayed by Beth Shehorn of Waukegan doesn't want to marry Richard; she wants Henry! All seems normal at this point. But as the cast of characters emerge onto the stage, donned in beautiful costumes, the plot begins to thicken!

Richard Lionheart, the eldest son, handsomely played by Matt Konkrite of Fox Lake stands tall and strong as he announces that he will be the next king! Keep a close eye on Richard, for he holds a deep secret!

John, the youngest son of Henry, begins to whine and complain that nobody in his family loves him and that he too should be the next king. John, played softly by Ryan Finley of Round Lake begins his plot for king, only through the help of his brother, Geoffrey.

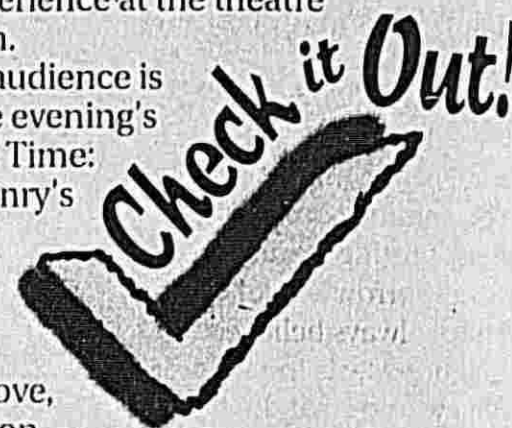

Guy Finley of Gurnee, plays the intelligent middle son of Henry, who starts to weave his own web for his plea to become the next king. But beware; he is very sly and ruthless!

OK, so you have three brothers all wanting to become the next king, the castle, the land, the princess, you name it—enter "Mommy Dearest!" Eleanor, Henry's estranged wife enters the plot. Eleanor, excellently played by Yvonne Alton of McHenry is a petite woman with a powerful punch! She has been neatly tucked away in England as a prisoner for the last 10 years in her husband's castle. She is allowed to be free long enough to celebrate the holiday with her very dysfunctional family. She too begins her plot to have her favorite son (you'll have to figure out which one) become the next king. At this point, don't blink, move or sneeze as the fast paced scenes continue to hold you in suspense. You begin to wonder, if you can't trust your own mother, who can you trust?

Added to the deceiving plot is Philip, King of France, played by Jerod Howard of Lake Villa. He demands that his sister be married, today, or he wants his dowry back or better yet, start a war! Watch Philip closely for he too is full of amazing surprises!

This fun medieval soap opera keeps the audiences in suspense and laughter from beginning to end. You begin to realize that every family really "has its ups and downs!" Director Frank DiMarco of Gurnee, has a hit on his hands with this wonderful cast of characters. Be sure to put PM&L's "The Lion in Winter" on your list of "must see," it will definitely put an end to your cabin fever and winter blahs.

Remaining show dates are Feb. 14, 15, 21, and 22 at 8 p.m. and Feb. 16 and 23 at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are $10, $8 for senior citizens and students. For reservations, call 395-3066, Monday through Friday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. or Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. — by ROSELLE LOVE

Breaking up is oh, so hard to do

Wish me well, readers—I'm trying to give up smoking. And I thought it might help to declare it here publicly so that, if I fail, you can all humiliate me next time you see me. I also decided it would be good therapy to write a "Dear John" letter to my cigarettes. Here it is:

Dear Marlboro,

I'd like to let you down easy, maybe gaze at you soulfully and whisper that "parting is such sweet sorrow". But I can't. I have always believed that honesty is the best policy. And so, if the truth be known, as the years have passed, you've become a big, royal red pain.

Not that I didn't love you. I did. Still, I suppose now would be as good a time as any to let you know that you weren't the first. There. I said it. It's true—I wasn't a virgin when we met. The first cigarette to touch these lips was a smooth talking, plastic filter-type who went by the name "Parliament."

Oh, c'mon now, there's no reason for you to be jealous. Old "plastic filter tip" and I just never hit it off like you and I did. In fact, one puff of that "Parliament" and I nearly choked to death. I guess the first time never quite lives up to its advertising, does it?

A smart girl would have sworn off cigarettes from that moment on. But we're talking about me, here. Besides, back then the world was filled with glamorous smokers on TV and the movies. And the roadsides were decorated with pictures of your handsome Dad—The Marlboro Man. Everywhere I looked, there were cigarettes and smokers.

So when I saw you lying seductively on the table at my parent's house one day, I decided to give cigarettes another chance. Maybe I thought it would make me look grown-up. Maybe it was the cute before I started to question it. (Maybe that's where they got the phrase, "It'll take years off your life.")

I mean, what kind of relationship did we really have? I had to pay you to be with me, you smelled bad, and you were basically choking the life out of me a little more each year.

(For that kind of abuse, I could have dated O.J.)

More and more, I was beginning to realize that you were just a bad habit. I wanted to toss you out, and I tried a few times, but then I would panic at the thought of being alone. My fingers missed holding you, and my lips seemed empty with you gone. Pretty pathetic, huh?

I finally realized I needed help to break your hold on me. So I went to see a doctor. And he introduced me to your replacement. His name is "Patch." Patch is like you, only better. Yes, I have to pay him to be with me, but he doesn't smell or try to choke the life out of me. And I'm hoping that in a few months, I'll be ready to give him up, too.

So, Marlboro, it's time to say good-bye. I'm sure you won't waste any time finding a replacement for me. A replacement with, as you would so crudely say, "a great set of lungs."

Donna

Editor's note: Donna Abeare can also be heard as a guest humorist on WXL 102.3 FM's morning show at 7:10 a.m. on alternate Mondays.

LIFE'S A BEAR

red box you were wearing. Maybe I thought you'd introduce me to your Dad. It's hard to remember.

Anyway, a few puffs, chokes and drags later, something came over me. I suddenly developed a crush on you. I guess you felt the same, because soon we were going steady. We went everywhere together—in friend's cars, behind buildings, and even the school bathroom. (Remember our song—"You Light Up My Life"?)

From time to time, people tried to tell me you were bad for me, but I didn't listen. The more they said, "Did you know that smoking is bad for you?" the more I wanted you. Maybe it's the rebel in me—I guess I thought it was "cool" to hang out with someone like you, someone so dangerous that there's a warning printed on his side.

I don't know when I figured out just how blind this love thing we had going was.

Quite a few years passed

Movie Pick
'Star Wars' remake galactical

When people reach their peak, usually in their late '30s or '40s, they become nostalgic for the clothes they wore, the songs they sang, and the things that excited them in their youth. Thus a constant 20-year nostalgia is in the works.

In 1997, the movers and shakers are fondly looking back at the 1970s when they and their world were young, ergo the resurgence of vests, flared hipster pants and clog shoes on the fashion scene. We're even hearing that "disco is back" and it isn't unusual to catch the Village People thumping away at "YMCA" as one surfs their radio stations.

With video able to bring back movies of the 1970s with just a stop at the nearest video store to rent the "Godfather" and all its sequels, only the revolutionary technique of George Lucas could bring an updated 20-year-old movie back big time.

That movie is "Star Wars," the biggest revolution in films since "Gone With the Wind." The movie that introduced the genius of Lucas and whet our appetites for the magnificence of outer space and bigger and better special effects forever.

Watching the 1997 "Star Wars" reignite the big screen with a touch of leathery monsters that weren't there before, though it was strange seeing Harrison Ford ala 1970s, made me remember that this was one of the first times I immersed myself in an out-of-this-world fantasy. Lucas' know-how has the retouching enhancing, not hurting, his masterpiece.

Here I was doing it all over again, though this time I found two succinct entertainment levels, Mark Hamill the hero reminding me of Richie on "Happy Days," and R2-D2 and his forays with C-3PO almost cartoonish, on one level. Most of the updating is done here so the greatness of the core of "Star Wars" remains intact.

Then there's the movie's second half starting with Luke Skywalker's Jedi training and the entrance of Carrie Fisher and Ford, as they surge into Death Star.

Suddenly all our senses light up and we have the explosive machismo that was the start of today's action movies. The vast difference in the two-levels pointing out the magnificent evolution of the film world in the last 20-30 years.

The blank blackness of Darth Vader, clothed in the booming voice of James Earl Jones, scared the heck out of me as before. The dogfight is still one of the most spectacular scenes on film, and the Force holds the same power over its audience as it did 20 years ago.

The momentum in the new "Star Wars" travels a few revolutions faster, as the action flows with the speed of light.

The old "Star Wars" rush is still there, only more so, as Lucas again proves he is the king of special effects, and of a rush of excitement to be experienced only on the big movie screen.

We give today's "Star Wars" the same rating it received 20 years ago, five out of five stars.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Dental sealants provide smile protection

February is National Children's Dental Health Month. The Illinois State Dental Society notes that with proper care and regular checkups, children's teeth can last a lifetime. The society has these tips for keeping your child's teeth healthy and decay-free.

Tooth decay is caused by bacteria. The bacteria is found in a sticky, colorless film called plaque.

For tooth decay to occur, three elements are needed: plaque, food containing sugars and starches, and a susceptible tooth. When foods containing sugars and starches are left in the mouth, plaque bacteria produce acids that can dissolve tooth enamel. The sticky plaque holds these acids onto the teeth, where they attack the enamel. After repeated attacks, the enamel may break down, forming a cavity.

According to dental society president, Dr. Richard Perry, to prevent tooth decay, daily toothbrushing and flossing are needed to remove harmful plaque from your child's teeth. "Children should clean their teeth twice a day with a pea-sized amount of fluoride toothpaste," says Dr. Perry. He adds that flossing will remove plaque that hides between the teeth and under the gumline, areas where a toothbrush can't reach. Supervising your child while brushing and flossing will insure that a proper job is done.

Dr. Perry notes that dental sealants can help prevent or reduce tooth decay. A sealant is a clear or shaded plastic material that is applied to the chewing surfaces of the back teeth (premolars and molars), where decay occurs most often. The sealant acts as a barrier, protecting the decay-prone areas of the back teeth from plaque and acid.

Dr. Perry says that each tooth takes only a few minutes to seal in the dental office. "When the sealant is applied, finger-like strands penetrate the pits and fissures of the tooth enamel. Although the sealant cannot be seen with the naked eye, the protective effect of these strands continues," says Dr. Perry. As a result, it may be several years before another application of sealant is needed. Reapplication of the sealant will continue to protect against decay and may save the time and expense of restoring a decayed tooth. Sealants are checked during your child's regular dental visits to determine if reapplication is necessary.

For long-lasting, healthy smiles, the Illinois State Dental Society recommends a total prevention program including regular dental visit, the use of fluoride toothpaste, daily brushing and flossing and avoiding frequent between-meal snacks. If these measures are followed and sealants are applied to the child's teeth, the risk of decay can be reduced or may even be eliminated.

Lake County initiates AIDS housing program

Feasibility study showcases need for AIDS housing

A recent study reveals that after medical care, housing is the most costly and crucial need for persons living with HIV. The Lake County HIV Housing Oversight Committee is addressing that need with the launch of an AIDS Housing Project.

Scheduled to open in Lake County in 1998, the eight to 12 bed facility will provide 24-hour supervision for men and women dually diagnosed with HIV infection and substance addiction and/or mental illness.

According to the Lake County Health Dept., Lake County reports the second highest number of living reported AIDS cases in Illinois. Nearly two-thirds of the 136 persons currently living with AIDS in Lake County self-report the dual diagnosis of HIV and substance addiction/abuse.

The proposed Lake County facility is the result of a feasibility study for AIDS housing, which began in October 1995 on behalf of the HIV Housing Oversight Committee. The study was conducted by Tim McCormick, CEO of the Alexian Brothers Center for Assisted Living, the consulting arm of the Alexian Brothers Bonaventure House.

"In addition to highlighting the increasing need for AIDS housing, the study showed there has been a significant increase in the number of persons with a dual diagnosis of HIV/AIDS and/or alcohol/substance abuse accessing services," said McCormick. "The results of this study helped us to conclude that the creation of accessible, quality housing is a natural step in developing much-needed service for people living AIDS in Lake County."

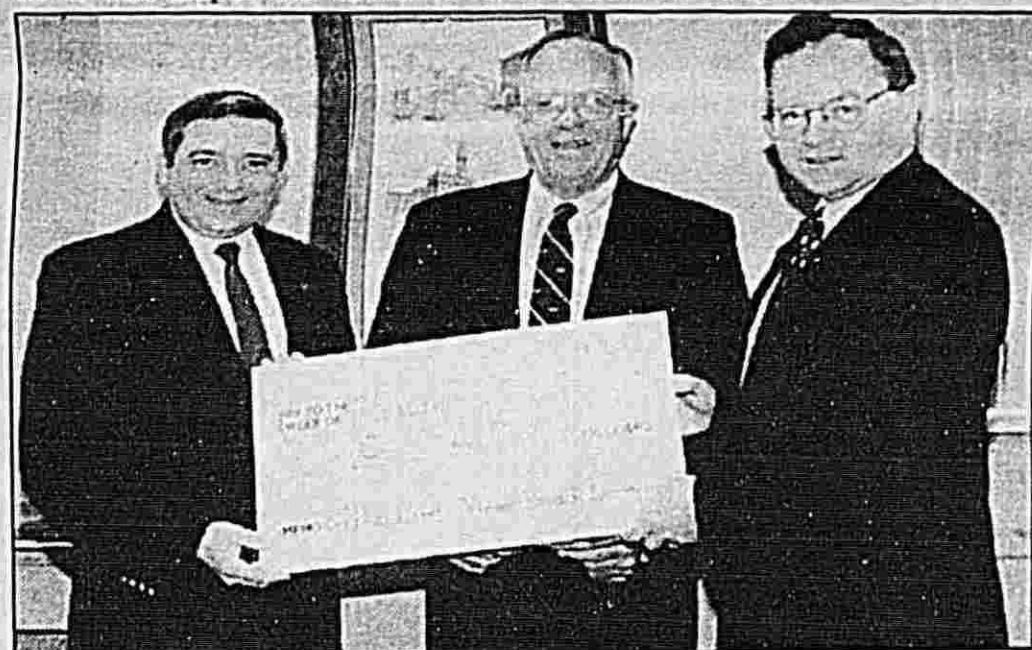

Rev. Brad S. Lutz, project manager of the Lake County AIDS Housing Project, and pastor of First Congregational United Church of Christ of Waukegan, will spend the next six months developing funding, aligning services and selecting sites for the proposed facility. "Many challenges lie ahead but we are determined to go forward with the vision of care, compassion and community responsibility to assume quality care in a cost effective model that benefits every community member," said Lutz.

"We are grateful to those who have gone before us and brought us to this important moment in our community's history."

The local HIV Housing Oversight Committee includes the Lake County Health Dept., Catholic Charities and United Way of Lake County, and representatives of the affected population, county government, hospitals, religious groups, and interested individuals.

Victory Hospital Foundation supports HealthReach clinic

Dr. John Curns, president of the HealthReach Board of Directors, and Dan Rodriguez, executive director, received a $12,000 donation from the Victory Hospital Foundation. This donation results from the combined efforts of the 1996 Chef Cuisine Benefit and the Victory Hospital Foundation Board of Directors.

"We're pleased to support the good work that is being done for the people of Lake County at the clinic," said Tim Harrington, Victory Memorial Hospital president.

The HealthReach Clinic, located at 201 Liberty St., Waukegan, provides healthcare services for the medically underserved population of Lake County.

More than 4,000 people of all ages were seen by the clinic staff in 1996. Patients were treated for a variety of illnesses including hypertension, diabetes, breast disease, depressive disorders, coronary artery disease, asthma and bronchitis. The total value of care provided to HealthReach patients during the past year was over $1,581,100. This includes services donated by area hospitals like Victory Memorial and Lake County physicians.

Since the opening of the HealthReach Clinic in 1992, the Victory Hospital Foundation has supported the clinic with over $120,000 in donations. Victory Memorial Hospital has also donated a mammography unit for the detection of breast cancer.

The unit not only includes the mammography equipment, but also staffing of the unit by a certified mammography technician and the time and interpretation services of board certified radiologists. Mammography services are offered as part of a program jointly sponsored by Victory Memorial Hospital and Saint Therese Medical Center.

Murphy's offers healthy Valentine alternative

MARLENE BROWN
Correspondent

Did you know that your heart beats more than 100,000 times in a single day, and that we have 60,000 miles of blood vessels? Are you being good to your heart? The owners of Murphy's Health Food and Juice Bar think that your heart will love the offers they are making for February's celebration of both Valentine's Day and Heart Month. The Libertyville store will feature specials such as a Healthy Cocktail (organic carrots, apples and a slice of fresh ginger), and a Bless Your Heart Smoothie, (banana, strawberries, apple and Fruitein).

Have you heard of Coenzyme Q10? It is an essential nutrient that energizes the entire body at the cellular level. Studies have confirmed that it maintains and supports a healthy cardiovascular and immune system. All Coenzyme Q10 products will be discounted 10 percent for the month of February.

Lori Murphy suggests that if you want to get to the "heart" of the matter for Valentine's Day, consider giving "healthy" items of cosmetics and/or snacks, custom packaged in baskets for gift-giving. Heart shape vitamins are also available.

For a special Valentine's evening, Murphy's is introducing a new herbal-blend product that claims to enhance the romantic "mood."

To show appreciation to their customers, Murphy's is kicking off a new monthly event—a raffle. Customers will receive a raffle ticket for each $10 spent. At the end of each month, prizes of $25, $50 and $75 worth of merchandise will be awarded to the lucky winners.

Murphy's is located in downtown Libertyville at Church and Milwaukee. Call 362-4664 for further information.

'Hearts' beat for homeless

Founded in 1990 by devoted philanthropists Mary Jane Nelson, Arlington Heights, and the late Phyllis Nicholson, the annual "Hearts for the Homeless" party to benefit families in transition continues to be the major fun and fundraising event for the Catholic Charities' Northwest Suburban Services based in Rolling Meadows. "Springtime in Paris," the theme chosen for this year's event, will "bloom" at 4:30 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 23, in a Parisian garden at the Cotillion in Palatine (Rte. 14 west of Rte. 53).

A silent auction and social hour will be followed by a gourmet chateaubriand, coq-a vin or vegetarian dinner and a live auction. Cost of the benefit is $50 per person. Tables are available at a cost of $500, $1,000 and $2,000.

Chairwoman for the benefit is Sue Langowski from Palatine and co-chairwoman is Diane Kordecki from Vernon Hills. Honored guests will be the Most Rev. Edwin M. Conway, D.D., auxiliary bishop of Chicago, and Rev. Michael M. Boland, administrator of Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of Chicago. Edward H. Fiedler, Jr., Comdisco, Inc., will serve as honorary chairman and WGN Radio's radio personality Kathy O'Malley will be the mistress of ceremonies.

All proceeds from this benefit will be used to support the Catholic Charities' Northwest Suburban Family Shelter program which places homeless families with children in apartments to help stabilize their lives while they seek employment, education, and receive counseling with minimal reliance on government assistance.

According to Stephen O'Brien-Combs, associate division manager for Cook County Regional Services, "The Family Shelter is just one of several Catholic Charities' programs in the northwest suburbs which helps with live and care regardless of religious, racial, nationality, and economic backgrounds. Ninety-nine percent of all contributions goes directly into service programs."

YOUR EYES

by Charlotte F. Nielsen O.D.

The moon looms large on the horizon but shrinks to smallness when it is overhead. Yet, it is exactly the same size in a picture taken in each position.

The difference is that the camera is not connected to a brain with its record of past experience and its storehouse of knowledge. The brain attempts to make things look "reasonable" and sometimes gets fooled in the attempt. The most common errors in seeing are in size and distance. But in spite of the fact the eye can be fooled, it is a remarkable apparatus. It can distinguish half a million different light and color sensations and brings man much of his knowledge of the world about him.

The eye is one of man's most valuable possessions. Don't take a chance with diminishing capabilities. Have your eyes checked annually.

New tax laws will offer benefits when saving for retirement, medical needs

Many individuals and families will benefit from new laws that provide federal income tax relief to help save for retirement and pay for health insurance and medical emergencies.

"The changes won't impact your 1996 tax returns, but should be factored in 1997 financial plans and beyond," said Lee Woolley, vice president of The Northern Trust Co., Chicago.

Several of the tax breaks deal with Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs). Starting in 1997, the annual IRA contributions for single-income families increases from $2,250 to $4,000—$2,000 for each spouse.

"The old rules only permitted a couple with one working spouse to contribute no more than $2,250. Now, that couple can make the same contributions as a two-income couple," said Woolley. Deductibility is still based on income and eligibility.

Additionally, the IRS will permit penalty-free withdrawals from IRAs before age 59 1/2 for two new, additional reasons. The 10 percent penalty will not apply if funds are withdrawn to pay for medical expenses in excess of 7.5 percent of adjusted gross income for yourself, your spouse or dependents; it's also waived if the funds pay health insurance if you become unemployed and have received unemployment compensation for at least 12 weeks.

The Northern Trust executive also advises consumers to note these other important 1997 tax law changes:

- Long-term care insurance premiums may be tax deductible, with the amount of relief based on age and indexed annually for inflation. As with other medical expenses, only those costs exceeding 7.5 percent of adjusted gross annual income will qualify.

- The terminally or chronically ill may obtain tax-free benefits, also known as "accelerated death benefits," from some life insurance policies.

- Self-employed individuals will get increased tax deductions—to 40 percent in 1997—on health insurance premiums. The rate will increase incrementally to 80 percent by 2006.

- Medical Savings Accounts (MSAs) will become an option for some individuals to help them save money for medical expenses. Tax-deferred savings accounts, MSAs will be available to self-employed individuals and persons in employer groups with 50 or fewer who have high deductible insurance plans ($1,500-$2,250 individual/$3,000-$4,500 family).

"It's important that individuals or couples consult with their tax advisor to see how these new laws affect them, their budgets and longer-term strategies," said Woolley.

"A good time to do this might be when finalizing tax returns for 1996."

Into the ears and out of the mouth of babes

I heard something that is kind of cute and maybe not so cute. By now, everyone is familiar with the movie opening of, "The Beautician and the Beast." The phrase, "Talk to the hand because the ears don't work" is a cute little phrase that Fran Drescher says in the movie and you have to admit it's really funny when she uses it.

A friend of ours has a little girl who is 4 years old and is familiar with this phrase. One day, she came home from preschool and her mom told her to pick up her coat. She responded to her mom by saying, "Talk to the hand cause the ears don't work" and proceeded to look away with her hand in her mom's face, just like Fran Drescher. Her mom looked at her with a smile and said, "That's good, because my hand wants to have a little discussion with your tush!" Oops!

The interesting part here is how kids pick things up so easily. She didn't see the movie, just the commercials and was able to pick this up.

There have been debates raging in our society about whether material seen or heard on TV or in the movies does, in fact, translate into behavior with children, I would say a great big "most likely it does."

So, be careful about which movies you let your kids see. Certainly, I don't mean to say that "Beautician" is a problematic movie for kids because I don't worried he won't graduate on time. Any suggestions? B.B.

Dear B.B.,

I hate to disappoint you here, but I don't have enough information about your child's prob-blem itself up.

I have had other kids who have learning problems that have been going on for years and then they reach upper grade where the difficulty level is much harder and instruction is very independent, without a lot of hand holding and direction and these kids don't like facing that type of feeling, so they back off.

I've also had kids who were being either maligned or beaten up by other kids in the school and nothing was either known about it or being done about it so these kids stayed away from that stress.

You can see that there are lots of things that can be at work here. I would recommend that you begin with talking to your child to see what is effecting him at school. Don't ask directly about the problem of not going. Ask generally about the different things I've mentioned.

If you cannot talk with your child or your child won't talk to you, get your child to see a psychologist. Maybe a neutral person will be easier to talk with.

The doctor can also determine what next steps should be taken, depending on what the problem is. I would also recommend that testing for learning problems be done as well, if you suspect that your child has fallen behind. Don't look at his or her grade school progress and say that there cannot be learning problems because the child was fine then.

When work difficulty and expectations of independent work increase as happens in junior high and then high school, sometimes a learning problem that was there, but masked due to lower expectations or more help from teachers and parents, can become far more obvious.

Testing for learning problems can rule that out or tell you what directions to be going to begin your help. A therapist can also help you if there is a school based social problem going on.

believe it is at all. I enjoyed it thoroughly and saw lots and lots of kids there enjoying it as well. Other movies may not be as harmless, though. Be careful

Dear Dr. Singer,
I have a teenager who has stopped going to school. I work full time and am a single mom. I've tried working with the school, but I can't seem to get help in figuring out what is going on here but in the meantime, my kid had lost weeks of school and I'm lem to get specific, however, I can tell you, in a general way, what other similar situations have been caused by and what we've done.

The first thing you need to do is find out what is causing this behavior. It can be one of many things. I had a child in the past who was being asked to do a paper on a topic that was very distressful to him and it caused a panic reaction so he started avoiding school. Once we found that out, we addressed that problem directly and it cleared

Sketch out vegetable gardens before digging in

by Lydia Huff

If you have decided you are going to do a vegetable garden this year, I have a few ideas you might like to try. Before you begin, plan on what type of vegetables you want to grow. Research how much space you will need, what kind of soil the veggies do best in, and how much sun the area will receive. Most vegetables do best with a minimum of six hours of sun each day, preferably eight. Walk around your property and observe which areas receive the most sun.

Remember, your garden is not limited to a rectangular or square shape; a triangular or circular raised bed in the backyard makes an interesting statement—again, use your creativity!

One of the most important decisions you will make is whether to garden in traditional rows or in raised beds. Raised beds are contained areas where the soil is built up, preventing soil erosion. Personally, I prefer raised beds. The plants' root systems take off better, drainage is better, and they are easier to maintain because as the plants are planted closer together, there is not as much weeding to be done. You also get more veggies out of raised beds than traditional row gardening. A good width for a raised bed is four to six feet; remember you have to be able to reach the middle of the garden! The wider it is, the harder this will be!

Take advantage of all your space by interplanting crops. For example, lettuce and radishes among peppers and tomatoes (which take much longer to harvest). Shade tolerant plants such as carrots and lettuce can be grown around tall plants like corn. When harvesting the earlier crop, be sure not to dig too deep, so you will not disturb the roots of the longer growing crop. You can snip the plant and leave the roots to rot and enrich the soil.

Some other interplantings to try are bush beans with corn or beets, never with onions. Broccoli and cabbage with savory herbs and onions, never with tomatoes or strawberries.

Cucumbers with radishes, carrots with onions.

Take advantage of trellising for crops such as beans, cucumbers, squash, even cherry tomatoes can be trellised. Trellising saves space as you are utilizing the vertical space in your garden. Cucumbers tend to rot if grown on the ground, also they grow bigger and straighter if trellised.

Plant flowers along with your vegetables. I like to plant fast growing annuals such as cosmos, marigolds, pansies, and petunias. They make a showy bed, and also attract bees and other pollinating insects, and that only makes the garden better.

Herbs are an invaluable part of any vegetable garden. They are attractive and make lovely borders around the beds. Some unusual herbs to try are lemon basil, cinnamon basil, coriander (cilantro, used in Mexican cooking) fennel leaf dill which is especially attractive, compared to the heirloom variety.

Sketch out your plan on paper. Before you know it, we will be ready to dig in! Next week we will talk about starting seeds indoors. Until then, peace.

Knight

"It was weird because his model never showed," Leslie said. "This is the best part," Leland noted. "So she was the model."

Because Leslie bailed the organizer out of a jam by volunteering to fill in for one of the several models who didn't show up, he paired her with Leland.

"Everyone said 'When you guys went up there you actually looked like you belonged together' and we laughed," said Leslie.

Another possibility for his success may be intertwined with his profession. As a knight at Medieval Times dinner theater, Leland battles other knights on horseback portraying a romantic era of chivalry. As Leslie said, the job is grueling and the three hospitals in the area know the knights well.

Everything about the relationship between Leslie and Leland seems romantic. They had a jet setting romance, meeting on a blind date two years ago when Leslie, who was living in California, was home in Chicago, visiting her parents for the holidays.

"I spent 10 years looking for mister right," Leslie said, and then she found him in her own back yard.

Their relationship got off to a fairy tale beginning when Leslie's sister came home one afternoon and told her she had set up Leslie with a man she met at a bookstore. Leslie was very hesitant at first, but he called the next day and she figured why not go and have fun.

They ended up getting along very well, discovering they were raised near each other and had much in common. Leland grew up in Wauconda and Leslie in Sleepy Hollow.

After the first date he invited her to see his show at Medieval Times the next evening, which was New Year's Eve.

On the way home they got into a philosophical discussion. Leslie said she actually thought to herself "Wow he actually has a brain too."

Leslie had to leave soon thereafter and took Leland's heart with her back to California. But within six months she moved back to Chicago at Leland's suggestion.

Even the way they recount their initial courtship is cute. Leslie said she wouldn't let Leland kiss her on the first date and a blushing Leland said not to tell everyone about that. He did, however, get his first kiss in the second evening at the stroke of midnight, while he was working in the show. Now they make it an annual tradition.

Leslie has written three books and eagerly awaits her first publishing.

"I have eight months before

I'm 30 and my goal is to have a book published by my 30th birthday," she said.

The first novel she wrote is "Love's Gentle Surrender" set around a pirate theme. This one was written before she met Leland. The second "Secrets of the Night," is a vampire novel set in Scotland in the 1700s.

"He came on the scene when I was writing it... I couldn't have picked him better myself. I started to write the book and was more than halfway done when I met him and before the end of the book I could start to recognize who the character really was, and now I had someone I could actually pattern the book after. All my characters are pieces and parts of people I know."

The third novel "When the Raven Sings" is about a knight who was injured in battle and gives up on himself. The heroine is a gypsy who always had a hard life and teaches him not to give up.

Leslie enjoys learning about the eras she writes of in her books so she and Leland decided to bring this knowledge to others. They founded "Warriors, Wanderers, Lovers and Thieves" or "WWLT."

The two of them visit libraries, schools or any other group that would like to see their presentations. They dress in period costume and tell about the history of a particular era.

Their primary audiences are romance novel readers, but they don't romance the periods they are portraying. Instead, they prefer to tell it like it is, or was, in often brutal times such as the medieval years. "Back then there was no shining armor," Leslie stressed, and she wants people to know the reality of the period so often glamorized.

"Writers' groups want to make it shiny and sparkly and I tell them it's not always bad to insert some reality into it, to ground them. The next time you write about shining armor, why don't you tell them about the squire who had to make the armor shiny."

Will their love last and have a happy ending if they both reach the fame their heading towards?

"She's really well adjusted enough to say 'I know you're faithful to me,'" Leland expressed.

"I don't think it's been anything different... five nights a week at the end of every show he goes up to the bar and he's in the costume of a knight with the long hair flowing and they just saw him battle to the death," Leslie said.

Leland has a fan club already. Interested damsels may write to him at: Leland Burbank Fan Club, P.O. Box 682, Wauconda, IL. 60084.

The Tremont is the most popular model so far at Cedar Crossing in Lake Villa.

Right, builder Mark Buschman incorporates many qualities of custom built homes into the development. He also meets personally with most prospective home owners.

Cedar Crossing offers best of city and country living

Story by RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Photos by SANDY BRESSNER

Builder Mark Buschman, a native of Lake Villa, believes he knows what homeowners in Lake County desire in a new home. That's why he has chosen Lake Villa as the site of his first Lake County subdivision.

Formerly a custom home builder, Buschman Homes has received numerous awards from the Greater Chicago Home Builders Association. Cedar Crossing, located just south of Grand Avenue on Rte. 83, features 94 single family semi-custom homes starting in the mid $160s.

Most homes back up to greenbelt open spaces, forest preserve or conservancy areas and the 42-acre parcel includes a large park, winding streets with sidewalks and streetlights.

"I grew up in Lake Villa and my family has been in the area for three generations," Buschman said. "My great-grandfather settled in Antioch in the early 1900s. I love this area and believe it is the ideal setting for raising a family."

Family-owned and operated for three generations, the name Buschman has been one consumers have counted on for more than 80 years. From lumber in the 1940s, to banking in the 1960s, to real estate development, today.

"I think Lake Villa has a mix of what people are looking for today," Buschman said. "It still has the small town feel, but is close to good transportation, shopping and has great schools. It's the best of city and country living combined."

Buschman has incorporated many of the qualities of his custom-built homes into the homes of Cedar Crossing, including name brands such as Kolher pedestal sinks, water closets and soaker tubs; Moen faucets, Kenmore appliances, Merillat cabinets and Schlage locks.

"I think one of the biggest differences between us and other home builders in the area is that we encourage buyers to personalize their homes," Buschman said. "You see so many developments today, where all the homes look alike. We don't want that for our development and I don't believe our customers want that either."

Buschman allows his buyers to customize within the existing home plan. For instance, if a buyer would rather have a formal living room constructed as a home office, Buschman will do it. Other requests have ranged from making rooms more open by enlarging entryways or adding closets or handicapped features to first floor bedrooms and bathrooms. They have also made changes to the exterior of the home such as reducing or enlarging the size of a porch.

"It is important that people have an opportunity to work with the builder to make their new home what they want," Buschman said.

Another way Cedar Crossing differs from many new home developments, is the absence of three-car garages. "We found most people want the three car garage for storage space, so we have built additional storage space into the garage by making it deeper," Buschman said. "It is often a better option for people." The three-car garage can be built if a customer chooses.

The homes at Cedar Crossing have been mapped to complement the typography of the parcel. The average lot is 10,000 square feet. Because they have worked with the existing typography, many models are available with garden and walk-out basements. Buschman is also creating a 4-acre wetland on the property.

"It will be planted with plants indigenous to the wetlands in Lake County, emphasizing the natural landscape," Buschman said.

Buschman has chosen an acorn-style coach light for the roadways in the development, which offer a more friendly illumination than in many other subdivisions. Mailboxes match the coach lighting and are included with the home.

Another feature of Buschman's business philosophy is to have the buyer pick out the appliances they desire through his builder's account at Sears.

"They go into Sears, pick out what they want in the style they desire at builder's cost," Buschman said. "I see no reason not to have buyers get what they want for their homes." An allowance for appliances is part of the construction price; if a buyer wishes to upgrade it is simply added to the contract.

Cedar Crossing also features an aggressive landscaping plan. "We will plant an average of 10 trees per lot," Buschman said. "There will be over 900 trees planted in the development." Each lawn is fully sodded with a minimum of five trees per lot.

"We use trees that are 2 1/2 inch or bigger for our plantings," Buschman said. "This gives buyers the feeling of living in a more mature development."

Cedar Crossing's seven models are appealing to the full-spectrum of buyers from first-time buyers, to move-up buyers to empty-nesters choosing a smaller home.

"We encourage a mix in our community, because I think most people want that. It is what makes a community unique, the ability to share life experiences with one another," Buschman said.

All the homes in the development are single family. Buschman works with the various types of home loans including: FHA and VA.

The seven models at Cedar Crossing range from 1,650 square feet to 2,520 square feet and range from $159,900 to 210,990.

"Our most popular model so far is the Tremont," Buschman said.

Describe the home that's in your heart

By Associated Designs

Walk into an unfamiliar home and you know right away if this is a home you'd want to live in. But can you put it in words? Can you tell a home designer exactly which features you'd want in your ideal home, what it should look like, and how it should be laid out?

Our annual reader poll, the Homes from the Heart survey, makes it fun and easy to think through these details for yourself. But that's not the end of it. Associated Designs encourages you to send your completed survey form to us after you finish playing with it. That's because you and other readers can tell us better than any other source, what today's families really want in a home.

Survey participants will be in good company. In past years, readers from almost every state have participated, and many have told us that completing the survey helped clarify their thoughts.

Home designers nationwide are always interested in the survey results, but Associated Designs is more than interested. We follow up by creating a home based on the expressed preferences of readers in your region. In addition, we will design the 1997 Home from the Heart, based on a nationwide compilation. Both will be published in this paper no later than 12 weeks from today.

So grab a pencil and devote a few quiet minutes to describing the home that's in your heart. Get it down on paper. And feel free to send along an extra sheet of paper or two with sketches or additional comments. We love hearing from you.

Top, this room is ready for the new arrival in the Ludington model. Below, a bedroom in the Sturbridge offers the option of additional shelving along the ceiling.

Adler model has small size but big personality

The Adler is a small home with a congenial personality. Five banks of sparkling multipaned windows face the street, along with two front-facing gables and a homey front porch. Inside, the living room and dining room flow together, creating a wide-open spacious feeling that's great for entertaining.

Ceilings are vaulted in the living room and master suite, but not in the dining room. At the rear, a glass door opens onto a covered deck.

In the large country kitchen, there's a food preparation island, plenty of cabinets and counter space, and room for a table. A pocket door slides closed to offer separation from the dining room when you want to escape from messes or the clatter of after-dinner clean-up. The closet tucked under the stairs could be used as a pantry.

Laundry facilities are handy, in a fairly large utility alcove hidden behind another set of pocket doors. A small powder room is tucked in a corner close to the entry.

Bedrooms are all on the second level. In the master suite, the vaulted ceiling makes the room feel larger than it is, and a walk-in closet provides storage. Each of the secondary bedrooms have two closets that flank deep, cozy window seats.

The Adler's second-floor bathroom is somewhat unique. It actually has three sections. The outer section, accessible from the hallway, has a mirror, basin and vanity and is primarily for occupants of the secondary bedrooms. The middle section encloses a shower and toilet and is designed to be shared by everyone. The master suite is more private. It has a spa tub and another vanity.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, Ore. 97402. Please specify the Adler 30-111 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 170 home plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

Try fast-fix seasonal decorating ideas to end winter doldrums

If you get bored with you decor as quickly as the seasons change, try some fast-fix seasonal decorating ideas. From throw pillows to area rugs, window treatments to accessories, there are countless ways to give your home a seasonal uplift that won't cost a bundle.

As a backdrop, it helps if the furniture, walls, and floor are a neutral color. Then you can add splashes of color to complement the seasons, holidays, or whatever suits your fancy. For quick-change window treatments, try throw swags or treatments that incorporate velcro in the design. One of our Canadian decorators used deep teal and burgundy for a winery feel, cinnamon and butterscotch for autumn, peony pink with a dash of sky blue for spring, and for summer, geranium red and green. If you go to the extra mile to have quick-change window treatments custom-made for each season, you will find seasonal decorating that much easier, year in and year out.

Accessorizing is a key element to any seasonal room. Think about the holidays and all the accessories that come out of the attic! If you give it a little thought, you could accessorize for every season of the year.

In the fall, warm up a room with cornucopia and baskets filled with colorful ears of Indian corn, leaves, gourds that suggest a bountiful harvest. Toss warm, crocheted afghans over the ends of sofas in the wintertime, and area rugs to add a cozy dimension.

For springtime fill a room with fresh cut flowers in crystal vases or baskets.

Summer is the perfect season for lush hanging plants and a pretty iced tea set displayed on a table skirted with fresh linen.

Take up the area rugs to create a cooler, leaner look. Another instant lift for a room can be found with pillows. Cover toss pillows with velcro closures that can be changed every season to provide a quick, inexpensive new look.

There are so many little touches that can change a summer room to fall, or a wintry room to spring. These are just a few ideas to get you started in your seasonal decorating. Don't be afraid to have a little fun and put your own family's personality into it. If you decide upon the custom decorating route, you won't be sorry. When you've enjoyed quality service from a professional decorator, you and the family will appreciate your interior for years to come.—by MARY LEBEN, Decorating Den, Grayslake and Gurnee. Many older couples fueling luxury condo market

Hidden Lakes condominiums, Lincolnshire

The forecast for luxury condominiums continues strong in 1997.

"Luxury condominium housing is driven by a variety of forces, ranging from age to mortgage rates," observed Jerry Weiss, president of Weiss Development Corp. The long-time condominium developer is currently developing Hidden Lakes Condominiums, the first new residential development adjacent to Lincolnshire's downtown redevelopment area.

The new condominium building will contain only 33 two and three bedroom residences in a four story elevator building.

"We are witnessing demographic patterns that favor demand for luxury condominiums," Weiss stated.

The first generation of post World War II Baby Boomers is moving into its 50s and adding a new appendage—empty nesters. And just ahead of them is a strong contingent of seniors who are the core of the luxury housing market.

"According to a report in Crain's Chicago Business, the number of people age 65 and older in Lake County will increase by nearly 15 percent in the next 10 years," notes Weiss, further increasing the base for luxury condo sales.

And while favorable mortgage interest rates projected to continue at around 8 percent for conventional long-term mortgages are not of paramount concern to most luxury condo buyers, they are significant in an indirect way: They set in motion a chain of sales activity that helps owners of expensive homes to sell and move on.

"Luxury condominium buyers tend to be a fairly affluent group in upper income brackets who simply use the accumulated equity from previously owned homes to make a seamless transition to a lifestyle that offers luxury, comfort and, equal to everything—freedom from maintenance. All in all, we see 1997 as offering a very benign climate for a growing population of empty nesters to make that change," he added.

Weiss Development corp. is forecasting strong demand in 1997 for luxury condominiums like those being offered by the firm at Hidden Lakes Condominiums in Lincolnshire.

The exclusive chevron-shaped building near the booming downtown Lincolnshire redevelopment area will contain only 33 two and three bedroom residences of up to 2,502 square feet priced from $239,900.

Household Tips

Ready-mix

A quick and easy way to please children who like peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, try mixing a batch of peanut butter and jelly in the same jar and store it in the refrigerator. It is ready any time the kids want a sandwich.

Kitchen drawer

Home or apartment kitchens with limited counter space can benefit from this tip. In order to make more space, when cooking for company, open a top drawer and put a cookie sheet over the top, then close it so the tray fits tightly. Every inch of counter space matters, and this will give you a little more room that is sorely needed.

Recycle sweaters

Instead of throwing away old sweaters unravel them and turn them into balls of yarn to make a colorful afghan.

Conserving water

Keep a gallon ice-cream bucket in the sink and when you run either hot water to get it hotter or cold to get it colder, catch it in the bucket. When the bucket is full, water the flower with it. No water then goes to waste.

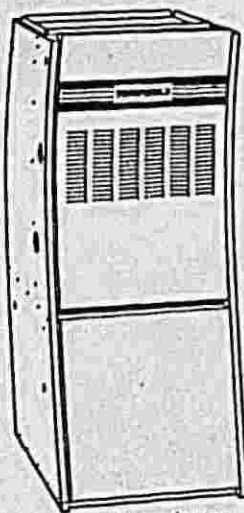

Recipe files

Have a lot of recipes, but don't know how to organize them? Purchase a simple accordion file with 12 slots and label each of the slots: main dishes, desserts, salads, breads, etc. When you clip a recipe, just slip it into the appropriate slot. When you want to try a new recipe, it's easy to pull out the file and look through it. After trying a recipe, if you like it, you can put it in a permanent folder and if not, throw it out.

Become a feature home of the month

Are you living in your dream house? Do you have a special room to get away in? How about that new deck all the neighbors are envious of? Or the special room you just remodeled? Horoscope

Aries – March 21/April 20
Could it be a new romance coming your way? Tuesday, look for signs of interest. Don't second-guess yourself. By Friday, things are crystal clear. Want to secure your romantic status? Try the old-fashioned route: Find the way to your mate's heart through his or her stomach.

Taurus – April 21/May 21
An open mind goes a long way this week. Try patience with friends, especially the Capricorn who keeps turning to you with the same problems and never seems to learn a lesson. Listen carefully. Is advice really what he or she seeks? No, only support. Give it generously.

Gemini – May 22/June 21
Feel like a slave to routine? You don't have to change it entirely to jazz it up a bit. Add an extra thing or two to your day. Make it something as simple as reading a new magazine or trying a new toothpaste. Can't think of anything to add? Then subtract a mundane task from your schedule.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
Reward yourself for the willpower you've been demonstrating this week. Treat yourself to a relaxing dinner out with a friend or a night out on the town. What a homebody Cancer probably wants most of all is just to return to his or her palace. Make a point of making it extra cozy for yourself.

Leo – July 23/August 23
Subtlety has never been your strong suit, Leo, and this week is no exception. A disagreement with a friend could set you off the deep end. Fight the urge to explode (as you'll want to); you may just dig a hole that even your sweet-talking tongue will have a hard time climbing out of.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22
You're looking to people for advice that you can only find within yourself. You probably have the answers already, but you lack the courage to admit them or do anything about them. Start thinking hard about relationships and your future. The choices you will make now will affect you for a long time.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23
It's hard to sympathize with your affinity for drama this week, Libra. Must everything really be as crucial as you make it? Let simplicity work for you for once. Try to remember your life is not a movie, so be careful of how you express yourself. Harsh words seldom mean happy endings. Honesty has a strong effect on a Leo mid-week.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22
Missing an old flame? Fight the urge to call him or her, but if you still want to by next week, give in. You'll have more to say with this kind of emotional awakening on your side. Saving and budgeting has paid off. Resist the urge to blow it all on a shopping spree with friends.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21
Relationships are more tricky now than ever. The ball's in your court. It should be making you happy, but it's making you confused. You can figure out love's facts and formulas with honesty, spontaneity and your heart leading the way. Follow them; they'll never steer you wrong.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20
Rest, rest and more rest is what you need most of all, Capricorn. Trying to lick a bad cold? It's the only way to go. Stay inside, and bundle up. Get well, and dazzle a romantic partner with a candle-lit dinner on Saturday. Thoughtful touches and special ingredients are sure to impress.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
Work is bringing you down this week, but you can pick yourself up. Concentrate on a project outside of the office that takes a lot of effort, energy and planning. Then throw yourself into it. With so much going on outside of work, you won't find the 9 to 5 so humdrum.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
It's time for a change at work, Pisces. Start the week off right by checking the want ads on Sunday. Make finding a new job your priority, and do something to help it along every day this week. Bottom line: Don't settle for something other than what you really want.

Shut up & fish

I'm calling about the stupid snowmobilers who ride through the ice, at Pistakee Lake, with so much noise. Why do they complain about the dog noise? Why can't they just fish?

Hey, blue eyes

You have beautiful blue eyes, pretty red hair and a broken heart. I have what it takes to mend your heart and show you love doesn't have to hurt. We met at Walgreen's 2-1-97. Remember me? I can't get you off my mind. Give me a chance and I'll call you soon.

It's cold

I'm calling about the person who says she can't believe how much wood people are burning. I have a news flash. It's wintertime and it's cold. Duuuuhhhh!

Can't handle it

I'm calling in regard to the comments on Alberta Meyer, who got fired from her job. How can she be the mayor of Fox Lake if she can't even hold down her job? I think it's disgusting. She can't handle the village if she can't handle her job.

Shave face

I was wondering why Eschenbach was sawing logs and watching the football game while Wauconda is going to the dogs. He should shave his face before the next election. He looks like an overgrown elf.

Good choice

I'd like to congratulate Neal Coull on being elected president of the Antioch Lincolnview Football organization. It was an excellent choice and he'll do a great job.

Bad influence

I'm calling about "Legalize pot." I want to tell the person who made these comments that I think they're wrong in saying this. Young readers don't get a good influence by reading this.

Get a life

I think all the people who are worried or upset about Donna Abear's column ought to get a life. As far as her Christmas column, it was the funniest I've read of hers. I think they need to stop worrying about this. Quit reading it if they don't like it and worry about other things going on in the world.

Special request

I know that our police officers have their hands full at this time of year as it is. But I have a special request that I feel benefits all safe drivers. Twice so far this winter I've been run off the road by snowmobilers who think they belong on the road. Everywhere I go I see them cutting across the road going from one field to another, or just using their snowmobile instead of their car. They even drive them to the gas station to fill up. We have to remember, snowmobiles don't have license plates and have no right to be on the road. If you have to go somewhere with your snowmobile, put it on a trailer.

Strange Mundelein

It's a sad fact that Mundelein is becoming as strange as its name. The building department doesn't run its own office. The director of public works, Ken Miller, does. Ken Miller is passing ordinances for the building department to follow in regard to private property sewers. I say to you, Ken Miller, fix the village's storm sewers so Cortland Street doesn't flood anymore like it has for the last 40 years. And keep public works out of my property. The inspection manhole you made Colette's Internet Cafe install is a disgrace as well as dysfunctional.

Queen of the malls

Mayor Vasels' newfound concern regarding the new mall and its impact on schools, village services, and traffic congestion is a tough sell. Especially when she's been directly responsible for most of these problems in Lake Zurich for the last four years. Residents have known her as the queen of discount stores and strip malls.

Dizzy reading

I don't know who proofread your paper, but Lakelife's "Let it Snow," was so blurry you got dizzy reading it. The only thing that was clear was Lipservice. I would like my money back for this issue or a couple of months free. I just signed up for another year plus two months and lately the quality is going downhill.

Who's saving?

In regard to the comments in "Saving you money," where it said private companies have expensive, unique equipment for the job—of course, in Fox Lake if we want to buy a long-handled shovel or a pick axe, it could get kind of expensive. What really makes me laugh is they have a superintendent of sewer and water who quits and goes to work for Smith Engineering, then the village hires him back through the engineering firm along with another man, for $170,000. That's really saving the village money. Not only that, if you check at the village hall, you'll find the local sewer and water in debt for $1,800,000 to the northwest plant. Whoever made these comments better stick to working in a restaurant.

Drop Depke name

There are a lot of us in Lake County who do not agree that Bob Depke should have his name on the new Juvenile Justice Center in Mundelein. After all, Judge Hulse was a much more prominent man and never were his ethics questioned in all his years of office. The center should have his name. Depke has disgraced himself to the community and sold out the best interest on the county in the building construction on Route 60 to a big company out of Skokie who had loads of money for his campaign contributions. Depke doesn't deserve to have his name on an outhouse at one of the county forest preserves.

Age is showing

Schroeder, your age is beginning to show in your editorial about the female high school wrestlers wrestling with the boys. I'm sure when you were a teenage high school boy, you would have been delighted to have the girls wrestling with you. After all, Bill, it was a lot of fun for us guys to wrestle with the girls in the cars when we were teenagers. Lighten up, you're being a prude!

Excellent job?

In reference to naming the building after Bulldozer Bob Depke, it's correct that Depke did an excellent job—of bulldozing Lake County and ruining it for all of us, that is.

Statewide vote

I think it's a great idea to have a statewide vote on gambling. If Fox Lake gets a riverboat, it will affect the roads in Volo. And who will pay for that? Me and all the other taxpayers. That's why we shouldn't have a local referendum. I'd like to thank the Lake County Board for their courageous stand on the issue and it shows that they haven't been snookered yet by the gambling interest.

Nobody cares

I'm calling about Lynn Pringle's article. Her whole article talks about how great a mother she is with her kids. Then in one of the last paragraphs she states that because she doesn't buy her children Beanie babies, she's a neglectful mother. My parents do so much for me. If she's a neglectful mother, then I must be deprived. No one cares what she buys her kids, where they go on vacation, or what they do around her house. My parents aren't going to buy the paper just because of her.

Check's in the mail

I'm very upset about how they do the water bills in Grayslake. I got a costly water bill in the summer because they put our sod in at the end of the summer and they retain heat. I've been making double payments of my water bill since. Every time I turn around, they keep sending me a late notice of $25 plus 10 percent interest. And they keep sending me shutoff notices for $50 each time. Every time, I go in and tell them we're making payments and they say okay, but we have to send these bills out. The last bill said at the top that the payment system is not functional yet. So, I'm being penalized because you people don't know what they're doing? This is ridiculous, you're gouging us with excessive fees. Please do something about it!

Round Lake's better

I moved to Grayslake a year ago from Round Lake Beach. I'd like to know why, when we pay higher taxes, that Round Lake has a better park district and library. Thank God you finally got off your butts and put in a decent library. Let's get with the times. We need a new mayor.

Burnin' all I can

This is for the relentless fireplace complainer. First of all, with minus 45, minus 50 degrees with windchill, who in their right mind would want to open their window? Second, I bought my new home because of my stove fireplace. I will continue to burn all the wood I can. I'd rather take my chances on a woodburning stove than natural gas. Haven't there been unexplained explosions in gas heated homes? Buy a gas mask to breathe your air or stay in your hole in the wall. Mind your business, you Jenny Jones wannabe.

We don't care

I'm calling regarding Lynn Pringle's column on Beanie babies. I wanted to let her know that not all parents can afford yearly vacations that require airplanes, yearly trips to the Wisconsin Dells, motels with indoor swimming pools, and every ice skating Walt Disney show out there. Some of us parents are thrilled to be able to afford the $5 Beanie babies. My children play with them everyday. Wake up and smell the coffee. We don't care about your lifestyle.

Not cherished

I live in Round Lake and I've noticed a chained dog is not a cherished pet. It's a captive animal used only as a watchdog or a living toy. As I drive down this village street, I've become aware that this young dog is always outside. In the cold, it has been warned that animals should not be outside for more than 15 minutes. Their pads are very sensitive. They also feel the cold weather.

Great perks

Shame on you, District 127 school board members, for accepting free Bulls skybox tickets from Legot Architects. They're the architects on the new multi-million dollar addition at Grayslake High School and the architects from last year's addition. They're even talking about another addition or even a new school in the future. Do I see a pattern here? Does it seem like someone's buying a little influence? I think it's wrong for our elected representatives to accept gifts from firms that we the taxpayers pay thousands of dollars to. If Legot Architects didn't think they were going to get something for their money, why would they pay for a skybox at a Bulls game? I think the board should be representing the taxpayers' best interest, not their own.

Arbor Day Foundation Sets Goal to Plant 10 Million Trees During 125th Anniversary

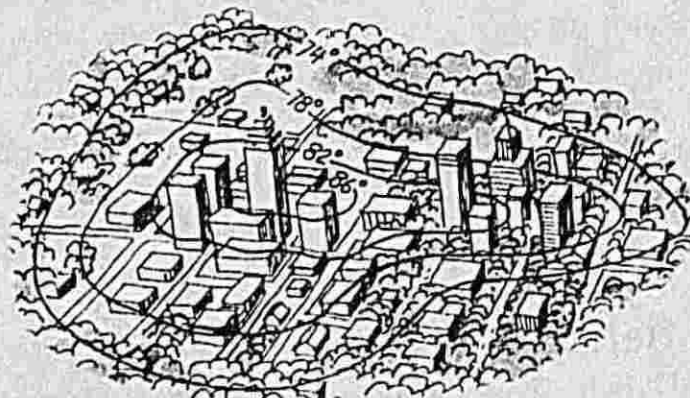

We Need More Trees Where We Live

■ We Need More Trees for Wildlife

Trees help make nature a part of our daily lives. Trees provide nesting sites for songbirds, and food and cover for a wide variety of wildlife.

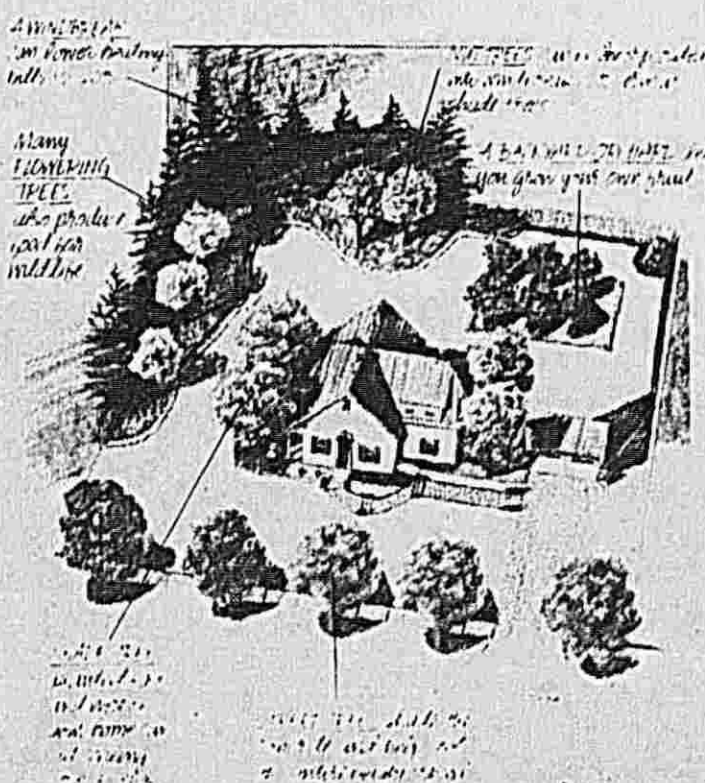

■ We Need More Trees to Conserve Energy

Cities without trees are "heat islands." 100 million additional mature trees in U.S. cities would save $2 billion per year in energy costs. The objective of the Arbor Day Foundation's Tree City USA program is more trees throughout America's towns and cities.

■ We Need More Trees to Increase Property Values

"Trees around your home can increase its value up to 15% or more. The trees you plant tomorrow can then protect your property, and you can enjoy a home that provides many other benefits."

The flowers of the White Flowering Dogwood (Cornus florida) are large and showy in the spring. Dogwoods' green leaves turn purple in the fall. Their glossy red fruits provide food for songbirds during the fall and winter.

► Ten Free Flowering Trees

Ten free flowering trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation.

The ten trees are two White Flowering Dogwoods, two Flowering Crabapples, two Golden Raindrops, two Washington Hawthorns, and two American Redbuds.

"This year is the 125th Anniversary of Arbor Day, and the free flowering trees are part of The National Arbor Day Foundation's Trees for America campaign to plant 10 million trees in 1997," John Rosenow, the Foundation's president, said.

"These compact trees were selected for planting in large or small spaces," Rosenow said. "They will give your home the beauty of lovely pink, white, and yellow flowers — and also provide winter berries and nesting sites for songbirds."

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting in your area, February through May in the spring, or October through mid-December in the fall, along with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

Members also receive a subscription to the Foundation's bimonthly publication, Arbor Day, and The Tree Book with information about tree planting and care.

"Planting trees is something that each of us can do to leave our mark on the earth," Rosenow said. "Tree planting is a positive act that will improve our neighborhoods and communities, and make life better for future generations."

America Needs More Trees

The United States has lost a third of its forest cover during the last 200 years.

Our towns and cities should have twice as many street trees as we have today.

We need more trees around our homes and throughout our communities. We need more trees to protect our farm fields and our rivers and streams. To provide wood for our homes and the thousands of products we use every day.

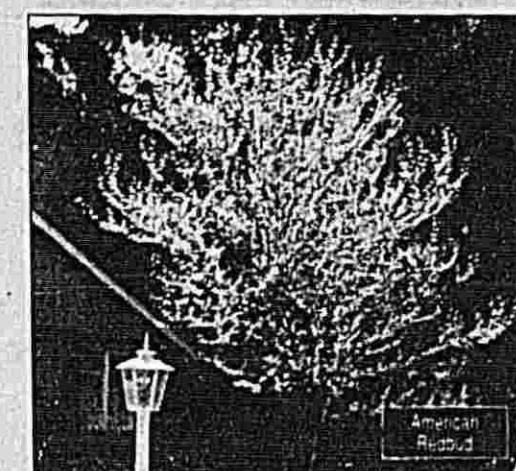

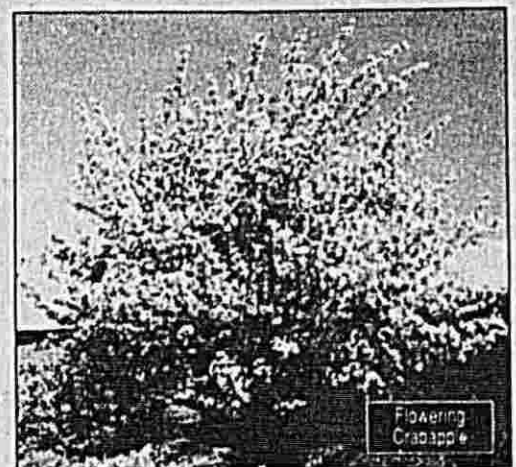

Trees Help Conserve Energy

Trees cool our homes and entire cities in the summer, and slow cold winter winds. Shade trees and windbreaks can cut home utility bills 15-35%.

Trees clean the air we breathe. They provide life-giving oxygen while they remove particulates from the air and reduce atmospheric carbon dioxide.

Trees fight erosion, and they provide food, shelter, and nesting sites for songbirds.

You can help make the future better and more secure by planting trees. Join today, and plant your Trees for America!

Hockey fun raises awareness for organ donations

SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

The Wisconsin Donor Network received a big boost with its "Rock 'N' Jock Hockey '97" fund-raiser, opening the eyes of Kenosha County residents to the need for organ donations.

A crowd of 1,300 people crammed themselves into Kenosha County Ice Arena Feb. 8, all wanting to see the main attraction — the "Hanson Brothers" from the film "Slap Shot."

The wacky trio — played by Jeff Carlson, Steve Carlson, and Dave Hanson — fell out of the ice smoothing Zamboni machine during player introductions, complete in their Chief's uniforms and black horned-rim eyeglasses, held together with a piece of white tape in the middle.

Not wanting to disappoint the fans, the brothers took it upon themselves to add a little fun to the game, scoring the first goal 17 seconds into the first period in Hanson Brothers fashion — one brother shot the puck while the other two kept the goalie away from the net, earning them spots in the penalty box.

Most of the other players were members of the Wisconsin media, with several former professional players thrown into the mix.

Also from the movie was Jerry

Houser, who was said to have not been paid a fee for his appearance, but just wanted to help Wisconsin raise awareness, and funds, for organ transplants.

Several persons who have had transplants, have relatives waiting for transplants, or have relatives who donated organs, spoke during the second intermission.

Leslie Coshun of Kenosha was one of them. Her son, who just turned 25-years-old, has been in the intensive care unit at Froedtert Hospital in Milwaukee since Aug. 12 awaiting a heart transplant.

She expressed her gratitude for the celebrities allowing them to see HOCKEY page C2.

Forest Preserve to purchase trail land

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

Ah, the feeling of biking along a nature trail in the sunshine.

To help break the winter blahs, the Lake County Forest Preserve has taken the first step toward completing the Des Plaines River Trail and creating the multi-recreational use West Loop Trail.

The Des Plaines River trail may be continued south from Riverside Road in Lincolnshire to Deerfield Road in Deerfield. The Forest Preserve Board voted to issue a notice of intent to acquire 14 parcels, ranging in size from 0.1 to 3.7 acres for a total of 16.55 acres to extend the trail. The trail will be a total of 33 miles when completed, if

West Loop Trail parcels
Chicago Title and Trust- on Gilmer Road	220 acres
Roney Parcel on Gilmer Road	93 acres
Forsberg Parcel on Gossell Road	38 acres
Breeden Parcel on Gossell/Fairfield roads	13 acres

the forest preserve is successful in obtaining the additional acreage.

A total of 347 acres of land will be preserved if the forest preserve is successful in purchasing land for the West Loop Trail which will link Lakewood Forest Preserve near Wauconda with Grant Woods in western Lake County. The parcels range in size from 13 to 220 acres.

"The issuing of a notice of intent is the first step in acquiring the property," said Martha Marks, commissioner with the forest preserve. It is issued following a review of the property and contact with the owners.

Both trail projects and the proposed lands met the land acquisition criteria set forward in the successful 1993 Forest Preserve Bond Referendum, approved by 61 percent of Lake County voters.

The purchases also will preserve natural woodlands and wetlands, provide wildlife habitat and assist in flood control.

The Des Plaines River trail extension would wrap around the western boundary of Ryerson Woods as it parallels its namesake river, and links existing Forest Preserve and community trail systems along the way.

Richards, Sprenger elected to Soil, Water district board

There was an election in Lake County, Tuesday, but few people knew about it.

The Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District held elections to fill two directorships on their five-member board.

Winning election to the seats were: Dave Richards with 182 votes and Otto Sprenger with 171 votes.

Susan Zingle and Ronald Wingender each received 140 votes.

Directors serve two-year terms. The other three members of the board are: chairman Sharon Buckeridge, secretary Elwood Brent and Joe Sbarboro.

The Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District includes the majority of Lake County. When the district was formed in 1957, municipalities and platted subdivision choose whether or not to become a part of the district.

Directors work with property owners to educate them on soil erosion prevention techniques and other preventive educational issues.

The agency is also now assisting the Army Corps of Engineers with inspections.

Commissioners: Condemnation not answer in land deals

Forest Preserve Commissioners are maintaining their public policy of condemnation not being a viable option in negotiations with property owners.

"You can never say, we would never use condemnation, but it would certainly be a last resort and require very unique circumstance," said Suzi Schmidt (R-Lake Villa). "It would be hard for me to come up with an example of how we might need to use it."

Since the late 1980s, the forest preserve board of commissioners has publicly said their policy in obtaining property is to deal with a land owner and negotiate a fair and reasonable price.

"I don't believe condemnation should be an option," said Bob Neal (R-Wadsworth). "The board has maintained that policy since the late 1980s and I see no reason to change it."

Former Forest Preserve President Jim LaBelle (R-Zion) echoed the thoughts of Schmidt saying while the board should not say it would never be used, it is certainly the policy of the board to work with willing land owners.

Citizens: Widen existing roads; ban 53

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Earl Johnson remembers his first battles on behalf of the environment well.

It was a dozen years ago, when the Heartland land debate regarding areas in Grayslake and Wildwood dominated the headlines.

Today, Johnson and the Illinois Citizens Action (ICA) group largely concern themselves with the proposed Route 53 extension through Lake County. They do not buy the argument that the extension will help solve traffic woes.

Johnson, of Grayslake, said an ICA newsletter will be going out soon to registered voters asking them to send letters of opposition to Gov. James Edgar to have the governor reject the Route 53 plan. The governor has final word on the funding.

"We are organizing public support to widen existing roads. There are better alternatives than a Route 53 extension through western Lake County," Johnson said.

He said motorists will find Route 53 and make that an even busier roadway if it was "six or 16 lanes."

"The two-lane roads should be expanded to four lanes and public transportation should be encouraged," Johnson said.

He described the argument that the Route 53 extension will ease congestion as "a never-ending strategy. Build it and they will come," he said.

In a sample letter which Johnson hopes people will use to write their own original letters, ICA points to:

- Congested roads need to be improved;
- There are no plans for the effect of water runoff from large rainstorms; increased air and water pollution.
- Negative impacts on bids, conservancies and wetlands,

• Another tollway would be a lifetime tax.

Johnson is executive director of the ICA, and is striving for tax-exempt status for the 400 member group. Its mission is to "protect the health and welfare of the environment."

Johnson also directs his efforts to being knowledgeable about campaign disclosure laws.

Johnson said it is getting more difficult to find volunteers. He is a regular at many Lake County board meetings and Lake County Forest Preserve meetings.

"I work seven days a week to stay involved," he said.

The vote to issue the letters of intent for the Des Plaines River trail extension met with one dissension, Bob Neal (R-Wadsworth).

"We are taking the politically easy way around the Des Plaines River and it will cost us more," said Neal, who favored an alternative in which the trail would have been extended through Ryerson Woods.

Commissioner Martha Marks defended the forest preserve board's decision to go with the chosen route.

"This area is one of the jewels in our crown, it is one of the finest pieces of property we own," Marks said. "We owe it to ourselves and to the people who might consider giving us large land donations in the future to respect and consider their wishes."

The Friends of Ryerson Woods have not been supportive of the trail extending through the parcel.

Neal defended his position by saying the negotiations have delayed the trail extension project three to five years and will end up costing the county more than if the trail had been extended through Ryerson Woods.

"This is a decision we as a forest preserve board made to go in this direction," said Jim LaBelle, chairman of the land acquisition and preservation committee. "We have worked long and hard on this project and have felt it was the best decision."

Forest Preserve President Robert M. Buhai said the timing was right for the board to move on purchasing the land for the west loop trail.

"Western Lake County is experiencing considerable growth and it's important to preserve the best Forest Preserve land for Lake County residents now while it is still available at a reasonable cost," Buhai said. "We are working closely with the property owners and the municipalities whose boundaries lie within 1.5 miles of the land proposed for acquisitions. Based on contact we've made so far, we are hopeful we can complete these acquisitions in a manner that is agreeable to the Forest Preserve, the property owners and the public."

The West Loop Trail vote was unanimous.

to slide their message of organ donation to the crowd.

One woman came up to her when the game resumed, stating that both her and her husband signed the back of their licenses after hearing the speeches.

"If you can get two people to change their mind, it just helps," Coshun said.

Houser, who plays for the Hollywood Charity Hockey Team with other actors in similar games as this, played with the "Hanson Brothers" for only the second time since "Slap Shot" was released in 1974.

Aside from the main attractions, the second loudest cheers went out to Lakeland Newspapers Greg Benyak and Dave Sherman, classified account representatives.

Not having too much experience under their pads, Benyak and Sherman were tentative during their first skate around on the ice, building up confidence as the game went on.

The little tikes of the Kenosha Blue Line Club AA skaters who took to the ice during the first intermission appeared to be more able on the ice.

Sherman participated in one Hanson gag, when the brothers, still on the bench, pulled all players on the other team over the boards, allowing one of their own to score without any opposition.

Once the Hanson's were all kicked out towards the end of the second period — allowing them to set up for photos and autographs — the game started to die down.

That is, until Lakeland Newspapers' own went after each other at mid-ice with 4:25 left in the game. Sherman jokingly checked Benyak into the boards, whereupon Benyak dropped his gloves and went after his co-worker.

"It was supposed to be for fun, and this guy starts making some cheap shots," Sherman said.

Benyak got in a few punches, before grabbing Sherman and flipping him over his shoulder.

Both received five minute misconduct penalties, leaving them both in the penalty box to verbally jar at each other. They would have ended the game there, had it not been for the unorthodox move of clearing the benches for the final 30 seconds.

The final score was 14 for the Blue Team, featuring Benyak and the Hansons, and 8 for the White Team, featuring Sherman and Houser. Sherman had three passes, while Benyak had two assists, and almost re-directed a puck into his team's net.

"Part of it was all fun and games," Sherman said, "but that was only 20 percent. The other 80 percent was real."

"That is not easy, man," Benyak said. "That is tough."

Most of the other players had hockey experience, including four former Milwaukee Admiral players, several which played in the National Hockey League, and one who played in the 1992 Olympics.

The players were helpful, Benyak said, offering some advice here and there. One player gave Benyak advice on how to step onto the ice. "It's not gonna grow up to meet ya," he said.

The referees were from the International Hockey League, and called a legitimate game.

The game did take its toll on the Lakeland employees, with Benyak looking for some Advil Monday morning.

Classified Manager Maureen Combs was glad to get them back in the office in one piece.

If Coshun could get one message out to the public, it is to ask people to sign the back of their drivers licenses, and look over new forms that will be included with income tax refunds concerning organ donations.

"Please, please talk to your families," she said. "It is so very important."

Edgar calls for school funding reform in address

Gov. Jim Edgar delivered his annual State of the State address to the Legislature, calling for school funding reform and a new program to provide health care information to women, according to state Sen. Dick Klemm (R-Crystal Lake). Other highlights of the governor's speech included welfare reform, campaign reform and capitol projects.

Cracking down at crossings

GRAYSLAKE—The Grayslake Police along with the Illinois Commerce Commission Police Department and the Metra Police Department began cracking down on motorists who disobey traffic laws along railway crossings with an intense traffic enforcement program along Route 83 where it intersects routes 120 and 137. Chief of Police

Dennis Koletsos, met with the two outside agencies last week to come to a decision on how to reduce the number of accidents which have been occurring in those areas. The majority of the problems are caused by motorists disobeying the rail crossing laws.

The program will run for an unspecified amount of time and will be on a random schedule.

Some of the recent mishaps Grayslake has experienced lately at the rail crossings include a man who disobeyed a rail road crossing gate and damaged it, a woman taken to the hospital with a broken collarbone after trying to beat the train, and a Barrington school bus that had a near-miss when the driver underestimated the distance from the traffic light to the tracks.

"For the most part people aren't paying attention. They check the gates over on a continual basis. It's just a situation of people not obeying the crossings and signals," Koletsos emphasized.—by ELIZABETH EAKEN

Election objections out

WAUKEGAN—All three candidate objections were withdrawn from the Lake Villa Township Electoral Board.

The objectors met with attorneys for all three groups and agreed to end the objections and let the voters decide the race. The Key Party Slate headed by Township Supervisor Sue Hanson, was challenged by Constance Kane, the daughter of Assessor Kathleen Kane who is on the True Party ticket.

The True Party, is headed by Hanson Virginia McGregor and Terry Aganap, independent highway commissioner candidate. Its petitions were challenged by Hans Ericksen and Hermann Heitman.

Jay Ukena, attorney representing the True Party, said all of the objections were filed before the parties sought legal advice. He claimed all the objections would probably be considered minor by the board.

Now all the filed candidates will be on the April 1 ballot.—by ALEC JUNG

Village begins long journey

LINDENHURST—Lindenhurst trustees are beginning to review a major modification to the existing zoning ordinance by the plan commission.

The commission spent a year fashioning the massive document which suggests creating several new business zoning classifications while keeping the residential portion much the same.

This is the first time the zoning ordinances will be completely overhauled since it was created in 1957.

The board will start discussing suggested new categories such as business parks, community business centers neighborhood business districts and office business districts. The draft recommends an area along the Route 45 corridor set aside for more major business use.

The board is expected to review the changes during much of this year.—by ALEC JUNG

Derailment concerns fire dept.

GURNEE—Officials of the Union Pacific Railroad will be in closer contact with Gurnee police and fire department officials if any future incidents occur on their property.

A derailment caused more than $40,000 in damage to products in some 14 cars just before 3 a.m. Feb. 7. Gurnee Fire Dept. officials were dismayed that they were not notified immediately.

The tracks are located in an area east of Clearview Ct. near an industrial park.

"We should have been notified," Lt. Tim Tanner said. "The damage was just to equipment; it did not involve a hazardous materials fire, deaths or injuries or blocking of a public street. But I have told our personnel to talk to the fire chief (Tim McGrath) if there is any future incident," Ed Trandahl, spokesperson for Union Pacific Railroad said. "Certainly if there was any endangerment to public safety, they would have been called."

According to a Gurnee police report, the incident took place at 2:45 a.m. Spilled materials included soy bean oil, flour, mixed foods, canned corn, and millet. There was no vandalism or sabotage, authorities believe.

There were 59 train cars parked near a Gurnee industrial park; 12 were empty and there were two engines. As of Monday, the estimated loss is $48,300. The cause is listed as a piece of metal from a car falling off between the wheel and rail.—by STEVE PETERSON

Brewer taps new site

LIBERTYVILLE—Owners of Mickey Finn's Brewery have their eye on a 7-acre site in Fremont Township near the Prairie Crossing train station. They would like the village to annex the property and build a brewery that would feature tours, tasting, and chiefly retail sales. A small restaurant would be included.

"It's another extension of the business that seemed logical," said Bill Sugars, co-owner of the downtown establishment. "We have a pretty good following around Lake and McHenry counties."

The Libertyville Plan Commission was enthusiastic about the prospect. Their recommendation will be forwarded to the village board.—by SUZIE REED

Village offers answers

MUNDELEIN—The door is open at the new Community Resource Center as the village expands the program begun at Whitehall Manor almost four years ago. Staffed by Officer Mike Richards and Melissa Ray of Omni Youth Services, the facility is located at 34 Oak Creek Plaza in a space donated by developer/owner Ron Boorstein. He assisted in the renovations necessary to create the office space, as did Medline Industries.

"This is a neutral location, a way to come to the police department or to get information," said Police Chief Ray Rose. Residents may also seek answers to questions, solutions to problems and referrals to social service agencies.

The center will work in tandem with Whitehall, and residents will have access to the same programs, resources and information.—by SUZIE REED

Opposition opts out of forum

WAUCONDA—Mayoral candidate Mark Mayo was disappointed to learn no opposing candidates wanted to attend a public forum proposed by his Wauconda Citizens First party.

The party received no response from the Wauconda TAG Team party, and was informed by Trustee Paula A. Soderman, an independent trustee candidate, that she looked forward to speaking in more informal settings, such as a "Meet the Candidates" night.

"We are just disappointed that they have no interest at this time," Mayo said. "I am sure the residents have some interest, and I think this is a disservice to the voters."

TAG Team party members agreed the proposal offered was not appropriate at this time, said Mayor James Eschenbach, who is seeking a second term.

"It is a little bit early for us to have our debate," Eschenbach said.—by SPENCER SCHEIN

Principal named best of year

LAKE ZURICH—Dr. Wayne Erck, principal of Lake Zurich High School, will pick up an award next week as he is recognized as the Lake County Principal of the Year for 1996.

Erck will receive the award from the National Association of Secondary School Principals during a ceremony held by the Lakes Region of the Illinois Principals Association at the Lake County Technology Campus in Grayslake Friday, Feb. 21.

Although not a person who looks for awards, Erck said he was happy to accept this one, as he was nominated anonymously by another principal.

"Awards to me should be things you do not actively seek," he said. "It is most uplifting when you are nominated by peers, and judged by your peers for an award of this kind."

Bill Loomis, principal of Stanton School in Fox Lake and regional director of the IPA Lakes Region, will present the award to Erck at the organization's legislative breakfast.—by SPENCER SCHEIN

Handbell concert in Millburn

MILLBURN—"Early Spring Ring" will showcase the special and beautiful sound of handbells at Millburn Congregational United Church of Christ's Lauren Hall, Sunday Feb. 16 at 2 p.m. when Millburn Church's handbell choirs host a community handbell festival.

The concert will feature handbell choirs from St. Dismas Roman Catholic Church in Waukegan and St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Lindenhurst along with Millburn Church's choirs. Each choir will perform individually and the combined choirs will come together for two finale pieces.

Millburn Church is located at 19073 W. Grass Lake Road at the intersection of Route 45. The concert is free and light refreshments will be served. For further information contact the Millburn Church office at 356-5237.—by ELIZABETH EAKEN

Gate closes on shortcut

FOX LAKE—Saying that public safety should supersede convenience, the Board of the Village of Fox Lake is moving toward erecting a gate, closing access between Hartigan and Stanley Roads southwest of Menard's.

The gate proposal was the subject of a special meeting Feb. 10. Village attorney Gil Johnson summarized action on the issue to date, including past resident concerns about increasing traffic as drivers sought to avoid the traffic light at Routes 134.

A village study confirming these concerns showing that 607 cars used Hartigan-Stanley route over a three-day period.

Local department heads spoke in favor of gating the intersection.

"I think that it's for the betterment of the village and I thank everyone for working with us to make it a safe project," Grant Township Road Commissioner Jack Kiesgen said.

"It's really nice to see the village move so fast on this issue," said Bonnie Thompson Carter (R-Ingleside).

Following discussion, the board elected to attach the bid of local contractor Jack Frost to a future resolution on the gate. The gate proposal could come before the board for final approval as soon as Feb. 18.—by JEFF PATERSON

Scherer slate falls short

ROUND LAKE PARK—After three objections were discounted, the slate of George Scherer Jr. was nailed by the fourth. The local electoral board of Round Lake Park ruled the slate was only two signatures short of the number needed for nomination for the April 1 election.

The objection filed by Bower against "The Integrity Party," the name of Scherer's slate hung on four key points.

The fourth issue was that current clerk Star Southworth had circulated petitions on the behalf of both her husband and later on behalf of the Integrity Party slate. The board discounted 15 signatures on an Integrity nomination petition sheet circulated by Mrs. Southworth.

With the 15 signatures ruled out, the board found that only 40 valid signatures remained, two less than the number required to nominate the slate.

"We had no choice; it was very black and very white," said board chair Charlene Beyer about the final ruling. "No one took it lightly at all."

Scherer added that, after consulting the members of his slate, the Integrity Party would appeal the ruling and run a write-in campaign if necessary.—by JEFF PATERSON

Question reliability of tollway financing

The free-wheeling and often corrupt Illinois State Toll Highway Authority is being confronted with new obstacles in pushing for further expansion. A federal court ruling has put the extension of I-355 on hold. The ruling raises questions about the feasibility of the Rte. 53 being extended into central Lake County.

The ruling that U.S. Dist. Judge Suzanne Conlon handed down in regard to the 12.5 mile Will County project clearly applies to the controversial Rte. 53 extension north from Lake-Cook Rd. Judge Conlon argued that tollway and state highway officials issued biased information favoring the $700 million 355 project.

For the first time, Judge Conlon's action affords an opportunity to examine the financial maneuvering that goes into tollway expansion. The Will County project would recover approximately 10 percent of its costs through toll payments, the balance being subsidized by other roads in the system. While Tollway Authority officials remain silent on the subject, Rte. 53 opponents maintain that the cost-recovery ratio for the more than $1 billion Lake County project would be about 28 percent.

Besides studying finances, there are legitimate questions about environmental impact and the effects on urban sprawl that need to be answered regarding more toll roads. Judge Conlon thinks it is vital to study forecasts of population and growth impact if tollways are not expanded as well as having facts and figures if new tollways are built. There's a big difference, obviously, a big difference.

A new dimension to the Illinois tollway debate is concern about how tollways transfer economic resources, sucking the lifeblood out of the central city and dumping environmental and sprawl problems on the suburbs. The roadbuilders probably never gave thought to that question, but now Judge Conlon's position is mandating that answers be forthcoming.

Finance reform benefits process

If there's a bright side to all the talk about Illinois political campaign finance reform, it's that there's still talking. Otherwise nothing has been done.

Other than disclosure laws, there isn't much to prevent funding abuses in Illinois. A bi-partisan panel recommended such things as limiting contributions from political action committees (PACs) and political parties to $50,000 a year; limiting contributions from any individual, group or corporation to $2,000 per election, and "limiting" spending by an individual or group to $200,000 per election.

Gov. Jim Edgar quickly voiced opposition to spending limits. For obvious reasons, both Republican and Democrat leaders in Springfield aren't enthused about limiting their financial influence.

The study, the Illinois Campaign Finance Project co-chaired by former Republican Gov. William Stratton and former U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, a Democrat, also recommended limiting huge campaign war chests, barring lawmakers from spending campaign money on themselves or keeping campaign contributions when they leave office. The latter situation is little understood by the public and explains why even very firmly entrenched office holders are involved in aggressive fund raising year-around.

Another funding abuse, worked effectively in Lake County for years by former County Board Chairman Bob Depke, is the gathering of contributions from key lobby groups and parcelling out campaign money or steering funds to candidates who would then be beholden. The so-called "bag man" approach is particularly heinous because it allows big money contributors like builders and developers to remain in the shadows.

A step in the right direction would be making it easier for the public to learn who the givers are and to whom they are giving. Speedier disclosure is vital to campaign finance reform. Right now late campaign contributions don't have to be disclosed until after the election is over.

The public wants to get campaign financing out in the open and level the playing field. A starter for serious reform would be asking politicians on the campaign trail hard questions about where their funding is coming from instead of accepting chip-shot rhetoric. Voters don't need new laws to ask questions.

LETTERS TO THE Editor

No common sense Editor:

Whatever happened to common sense? Local politics has replaced common sense when it comes to the discussions about our continued growth problem in Lake County.

Some of our newly elected officials took office stating they are for controlled growth. Growth is inevitable. We cannot stop it.

Therefore, it is time to use common sense. Is there really a need to create more government jobs to study impacts on schools, roads and wet lands? These studies will take years to come up with a solution and are outdated by the time they are finished.

Old becomes new in chase to future

BILL SCHROEDER

Back to the future.

That's a catch phrase to describe efforts to do new things in old ways. Hollywood made a delightful movie about the subject featuring a mad professor and a sprite of an actor, Michael J. Fox. Catch it on the reruns.

In Lake County, rekindling old ways is part of the headlong dash toward the future in two major categories of everyday life. Consider what's happening in education and transportation.

A group of parents in Prairie Crossing is out to obtain charter school status for a one-room school to be established at the acclaimed environmentally friendly mid-county subdivision. Classes would be conducted in an authentic early century school building.

2. Long-range planning is being conducted to link every community in the county with commuter rail service. That goal was well on its way to becoming a reality at the turn of the century when the automobile took America by storm and bankrupted short lines.

"Far-sighted" leaders envision the Elgin Joliet & Eastern Railway, a freight line looping the Chicago area, being adapted for commuter service like the Wisconsin Central model put into service last year to Antioch.

There's a good chance commuter trains will be running on the EJ&E tracks in our lifetime linking Mundelein, Hawthorn Woods, Lake Zurich, Barrington and other south Cook and Will County communities. Newcomers in our community probably have never even heard of this line where freight is hauled back and forth every day.

We'll probably see the return of the one room school hereabouts within a couple of years.

Hope you haven't thrown away your leisure suit. Should be a style rage in a few years.

PROUD—For Saturday garb, I wear my green cap with the large gold G with pride. And I shall continue to wear the cap until the Cubs become world champs and I can don the royale blue cap with the familiar red C. That is unless the Fighting Illini win the Big 10 championship whereupon a navy blue cap will be emblazoned with the distinctive orange block I.

GOING ELSEWHERE—Not a single Lake County school was among high schools sending 100 or more students to Northern Illinois University. St. Charles High topped the list with 221 graduates enrolled at NIU. DeKalb High School was second with 193. Downers Grove North ranked 26th with an even 100.

NOSTALGIA—Tell your neighbors who spend a lot of time in airplanes as part of their job about a trip recreating the "Good old days" of air travel when piston engine planes ruled the skies. Swissair will trace the inauguration of trans-Atlantic air travel when a historic, beautifully maintained DC-4 leaves New York May 10 for Gander, Newfoundland, with a stop in Shannon, Ireland, before arriving in Zurich, Switzerland. A second leg departs June 12. Travelers will return on either a Boeing 747 or a McDonnell Douglas MD-11. You'll probably have to go to the bank for tickets, which top out at $9,958 for flight and land arrangements. For you youngsters, the DC-4 had four engines—each with a propeller.

FORWARD STEP—Gov. Jim Edgar is reviewing the state's first Acupuncture Practice Act, which sets up registration, fees and practices. Under the bill, physicians' relationships with acupuncturists would be similar to those with physical therapists. The ancient Chinese treatment has been gaining acceptance over the years.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY—New granddaughter Alexandra doesn't know it, but she now has a nickname. Allie. The family is being inundated with diapers. Ericka, Allie and grandson John had twin girl cousins born in North Carolina last week. Elizabeth and Faith. Now we can start working on pet names for them.

PARTY LINES

Kiesgen gives new meaning to 'foot in mouth'

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political opinion, is prepared from staff reports.

Grant Township Supervisor Gordy Kiesgen gave new meaning to the term "open mouth and insert foot" during his invocation remarks at the annual Grant Township Lincoln Day Dinner. Kiesgen suggested organizers seek a well-known Republican speaker to pack 'em in for next year's 50th anniversary.

Organizers turned various shades of purple as they awaited to introduce one of the state's leading Republicans, Pate Phillip. Phillip gave the main address at the function.

Kiesgen was publicly chided for his remarks by State Sen. Adeline Jay Geo-Karis (R-31st).

Perhaps, Newt Gingrich or Bob Dole would fit the bill for Kiesgen who should remember that sometimes less is more when it comes to public speaking.

'Dedicated' bartenders — Incumbent candidates in the April 1 election maintained high visibility at Street Scenes in Mundelein. Mayor Marilyn Sindles, Village Clerk Colleen Kastling and Trustees Bruce Campbell and Jim Nutschig, together on the Dedicated to Mundelein slate, manned a drink booth just outside the Carmel Rock Cafe during both nights of the school's annual fundraiser.

Correction—Party Lines was informed incorrectly that challenger Patrick Smythe is suing Round Lake Mayor Jim Lumber. Our apologies. Smythe and some neighbors are involved in a lawsuit against DiMucci Builders over a drainage problem. DiMucci, in turn, has filed suit against the Village of Round Lake. The legal action is only a side issue in the spring election.

Cyber-election—For the past 16 years, the Village of Island Lake elections have been centered around the Amrich family corner gas station. Mayoral Candidate Beverly Anderson says this election may be "Lake County's first to be settled in cyber space." Anderson has placed her platform and slate at www.anderson-house.com/anderson4mayor on the Internet.

Anderson

Anderson opponents have stated "we don't need that Buck Rogers stuff."

Sweetheart—Friends and supporters of State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) insist that Valentine's Day is the perfect date to honor the long-time legislator with a fundraising reception at the Princess in Libertyville. Cost for the love-in is $25 per person.

Scorcher—Ears of politicians near and far will be singed, Hawthorn Woods Trustee Andy Bitta promises, when he addresses an audience Thursday, Feb. 20, at Maine South High School on the folly of Des Plaines River valley flood control efforts.

Bitta, a strong voice for environmentalism and a retired high school teacher, says political leaders ignore the fact that one and one half million persons are affected when the Des Plaines goes on a rampage. The 7:30 p.m. program, open to all interested persons, will be sponsored by the Maine South Ecology Club and will be held in the school cafeteria.

Surfing for votes—Ila Bauer, a retired educator who is running for mayor of Round Lake Park, is so enthusiastic about Internet that she wants to establish a web site for the village if elected. Bauer already is browsing the net for information that would be helpful in office. Bauer was defeated for mayor four years ago by 50 votes. The winner, Charlene Beyer, chose not to seek reelection. Bauer says Beyer is supportive.

Drop out—Now that he's no longer running for reelection, Grayslake Trustee Rich Anderson says board service was a worthwhile experience. The growing demands of his successful law practice had more to do with the decision to drop out of the April 1 race than a challenge from another candidate. Anderson will remain as a trustee of the College of Lake County, a position he has held for a number of years.

Gaining support—A fund raiser for the Wauconda Citizens First party held Feb. 8 at the Wynstone Restaurant was attended by approximately 100 people, including a number of individuals interested in learning more about the group, which is trying to unseat Mayor James Eschenbach and his Wauconda TAG Team partymates. Former Wauconda school board member Mark Mayo is the Citizens party candidate for mayor.

TAG team support—Meanwhile, Kenneth McGill, former Wauconda mayor, and Venita L. McConnel, former village clerk, are hosting a reception honoring Wauconda Mayor James Eschenbach and all candidates of the Wauconda TAG team. The reception is set for Feb. 20 at Capt. Guido's Restaurant, 496 West Liberty Street, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. There will be hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar. Donation is $10. For more information call Dee at 487-2422.

Supervisor jalled—Lake Villa Township Supervisor Sue Hanson is in jail. She is accused of train robbin', cattle rustlin', not payin' her saloon tab and caring too much for "Jerry's Kids." Her bail has been set at $500. She will serve time behind bars at R.J.'s Eatery in Lindenhurst, Feb. 19 from 3 to 4 p.m. Pledges for her release can be made by calling the township office at 356-2116.

Key fundraiser—Lake Villa Township's Key Party will hold a fundraiser March 1 at the Lake Villa VFW Post 4308. Party-goers can dance to the music and sing their favorite songs with Laurie Strakey Karaoke and DJ. Donations are $10. For tickets call Bob Schmidt, 356-0131.

Primary change—State Senator Terry Link (D-30th) believes he has the solution to voter frustration with the length and intensity of the political season—move the primary to June.

Under a bill proposed by Link the Illinois primary would move to the third Tuesday of June. He notes the historical precedent for holding a later primary—it was held on the second Tuesday of June from 1966-68.

"The current primary was imposed to make Illinois a more important player in the Presidential nominating process. But, for all intents and purposes is over before it gets to Illinois," Link said. "This change recognizes that fact and simply restructures the campaign season to make it more voter friendly and less expensive."

The bill now goes to the Senate Rules Committee where it will be assigned to another substantive committee for a hearing.

will take at least two years. In the mean time—you guessed it—more uncontrolled growth and destruction of our wetlands. Why should the taxpayers pay for these studies? Developers and building contractors should pay. We have in our area a company called Integrated Lakes Management of Gurnee whose purpose is to study these problems and help with solutions that work for everyone.

Additionally, compounding the problem of slow county government, some developers try to speed up the process by annexation of property into one of the Round Lake municipalities where people are told how low the density is going to be. However, the politicians (who have no common sense) fail to mention that the density calculations are based on the entire parcel of land of which more than half are wetlands.

Western Lake County is home to much of the state's natural glacial lakes created thousands of years ago as ice glaciers advanced and receded. These lakes and wetlands are being destroyed while our local politicians continue to study the problem. It's time to use the common sense approach to development.

Time to make a change

Editor:

I say "Amen" to Helen Strzalka's letter on the Wildlife Preservation Fund. It's goal is to preserve wildlife so it can be shot.

She makes an excellent point that hunting season deprives the majority (non-hunters) of use of the wildlife areas.

I've always just accepted this restriction—glad to be out of the way of people shooting guns and arrows.

But why should we be inconvenienced? How can we change things? Who appoints the Dept. of Natural Resources?

Marianne Guy

Creating killing fields

Editor:

Brent Manning, director of the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources, has made a public appeal for contributions to the state's Wildlife Preservation Fund, such contributions to be made directly to the DNR or by checking off the appropriate box on your state income tax form.

Sounds like a great idea on the face of it. The problem is that Brent Manning is the same person who authorized and participated in bowhunts in the Rend Lake Wildlife Refuge. These hunts were opposed on ethical grounds not only by animal activists but by local hunters as well. Appeals to Governor Edgar and the state legislature failed to stop the savage bowhunts.

Director Manning, in turning a wildlife refuge into a killing field for himself and others of his type, has demonstrated that he is not to be trusted when it comes to wildlife preservation. One wonders how soon it will be before he opens all wildlife refuges to hunting.

The Rend Lake Wildlife Refuge was established 30 years ago. Until 1995 it was a safe haven. Deer overpopulation is not an issue within the refuge and was not used as an excuse for the 1995-96 slaughters. The bow-and-arrow hunts were strictly recreational, in spite of the fact that nearly 7,000 acres surrounding the refuge are available for recreational hunting.

Do you want to contribute money to a state agency that is headed by someone whose main objective is not to preserve wildlife but to provide additional killing fields for unscrupulous hunters who do not hesitate to invade sanctuaries? If you agree that wild life refuges should be out of bounds to hunting and other forms of human predation, let Governor Edgar and your state lawmakers know how you feel.

Biased towards building

Editor:

Many people are complaining and blaming their village county officials for the purported "progress" i.e., development in the area. They are generally correct in their blame, but there are others to be held accountable. Primarily, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. You ask, how can that be? The EPA is usually doing their job protecting the environment, but along with other state agencies, they are actually causing destruction of the environment and increasing taxes.

The Farmland Preservation Act, a 1982 State law administered by the Dept. of Agriculture, mandates that the IEPA and other state agencies preserve Illinois farmland when state funds are used for project consideration and approvals of local government infrastructure improvements. Since 1982, the IEPA, being responsible for approving or rejecting new sewer expansions, has contributed to the destruction of over 350,000 acres of farmland/open space, by usually approving village county demands for more sewers and wastewater treatment facilities.

The Farmland Preservation Act requires mitigation of destroyed farmland to the "maximum extent," but the agencies have generally agreed (with the Dept. of Agriculture) to not actually preserve or mitigate. Instead, the IEPA "agreement" intentionally accommodates "local governments—planned growth patterns" (generally dictated by developers), and then attempts to minimize and justify the significant impact on farmland conversions, by absurdly stating, (the sewer expansions) "merely help provide for adequate pollution control." This translates to higher property taxes, more traffic, flooding, pollution, crime, school expansions, and a general decrease in the quality of life.

The Farmland Preservation Act does not specify or imply that state agencies promote carte blanche development as a priority over preserving farmland. The agencies have willfully contrived their "agreement" with double-talk, to not interfere with "Progress," thereby forcing the public to accommodate accordingly.

I suggest writing, phoning the IEPA, the governor, the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, your legislators and demand that farmland/open space be preserved. If the state continues promoting private interests over the public interest, maybe a class action taxpayers suit would enlighten the state to understand the Farmland Preservation Act intent—"The natural resources of Illinois-land, minerals, water, air-are finite and fragile."

Build business with better negotiating skills

Whether we recognized it or not, all of us are participants in life's negotiating process. And, at least to some degree, our success depends on how good we become at bargaining for what we want.

According to my Webster's dictionary, negotiate means "to bargain or discuss with a view to reaching an agreement." The results of any negotiations are most desirable and successful when both sides get what they want. We call this "win-win" negotiation.

Your goal in negotiating should be to find win-win positions whenever possible. However, in the real world it doesn't always work out that way. Sometimes only one side gets what they want. We call this a "win-lose" deal. Rarely, neither party gets what they desire. That of course is a "lose-lose" situation.

Unfortunately, becoming a great negotiator isn't as easy as reading this column or even a good book on the subject.

You develop negotiation skills in the same way you build other skills. First, you must understand the rules and have a working knowledge of the process. Second, you must practice to improve. I hope the following tips and suggestions will help you get started.

Negotiation tips

- Understand that virtually everything

Minding YOUR OWN BUSINESS

is negotiable. The first step in becoming a better negotiator is to look for opportunities to improve your business position by negotiating. Then start practicing. You can ask, offer, counter offer and suggest alternatives.

• The next step is to do your homework. In negotiating, knowledge is power. When you know a lot about the deal, and understand the other side's position thoroughly, you are more likely to get exactly what you want.

- Next, remember to aim high. It's not likely you'll ever be given more than you ask for. So start high and come back down if you have to. You also need to know where to stop. Establish a final position where you go no lower, or make no more concessions. This is the place where you walk away.

• Be prepared to walk away. When you know your final position and are willing to walk away with no deal, you're in a strong position. Sometimes you lose the deal, but in the long term you're a winner. Frequently, the other side will give some ground when they see you're serious about walking away or saying no to a bad deal.

• Keep your cards close to your vest. Never let the other side know how important the deal is to you. See NEGOTIATING page C8

Century 21 expands services to include estate properties

Tom Kreuser and M.J. Seller, broker/owners of Century 21 Kreuser and Seller in Libertyville, have instituted a new program for the handling of properties half a million dollars and above under the Century 21 Fine Homes and Estates brand.

Century 21 Kreuser and Seller is now equipped with exclusive marketing tools such as a distinctive signage and national advertising in prominent consumer magazines to assist it in effectively marketing of upscale homes.

"Over the years our office has always handled the listing of higher end properties. But, Kreuser said, because the Century 21 Fine Homes and Estates program and the marketing tools now available to us specifically target a particular type of property and individual, we can significantly increase the value we bring to this specialized market by efficiently matching buyers with sellers." He added, "With our participation in this program, we can provide an upscale customer with the same quality service that we have always extended to our customers while offering those elements of the sales process that are more particular to the needs of the upscale property market."

For information regarding this program, call 367-1171.

End of era with closing of Carousel Cleaners

PAT WEISS
Correspondent

Meyer is the name—cleaning is the game. The end of an era has come as Wauconda-ite, Don Meyer sold his family-based business, Carousel Cleaners. For as long as he could remember, Don's family had been involved in the craft of clothes cleaning. It all began with grandfather Herman Hahn, who owned and operated the Maywood Family Laundry in Maywood for eons before losing it during the depression. Grandfather Hahn's son, Herman (Don's uncle), who had worked in the laundry along with his sister, Henrietta (Don's mother), kept the family line alive by managing several large laundries in the Chicago area and finally purchasing his own business, The Park Lane Laundry in Arlington Heights.

In 1974 Herman Hahn opened the Wauconda Family Laundry on Mill Street, behind the old Main Street Bank building. Don's dad, Otto managed the business and in 1954 the laundry was converted to a dry cleaning establishment and the name changed to Herman's Cleaners with Otto and his son, Don managing the shop. 1957 brought more change, new owners. Otto and Don Meyer and a new name, Carousel Cleaners.

In 1958 Don took time out from his thriving new business to marry the girl next door, Geri White. Miss Geri is a celebrity in her own right. She is known far and wide as the "Egg Lady" and is famous for her "Faberge" type decorated eggs. Among the proud owners of Geri's Eggs are such notables as: Princess Di, Nancy Reagan, Malcolm Forbes and two

Miss Americas. Their children, Dale (born 1960) and Dori (born 1962) got involved in the family business at an early age, napping in laundry carts in the back of the cleaners while mom filled in at the front. Now it's Melanie, Dori and Scott Brommelkamp's little daughter's turn to curl up in a cart while mom, Dori mans the presses, "what goes around, comes around." Dori has been carrying on the family tradition, working for her dad for 23 years.

Carousel Cleaners remained on Mill Street until 1966, when the business was moved to its present location on Liberty Street (the old Don Lundsten and Son's Cabinet and Millwork shop). In See CAROUSEL page C8

Don Meyer, Melanie and Dori Brommelkamp take one last horse ride as Carousel Cleaners comes to an end.

Abbott to acquire French maker of clinical chemistry analyzers

Abbott Lab. announced the acquisition of Alcyon Analyzer SA, a French manufacturer of low-volume, benchtop clinical chemistry analyzers.

Alycon is a private company based in St. Mathieu de Treviers, France, outside of Montpellier. Alcyon manufactures and sells a "family" of three, low-volume, clinical chemistry instruments. The instruments are automated and utilize similar technologies and analytical pathways, but differ in their capability of tests run per hour.

Under terms of the agreement, Abbott will obtain 100 percent of Alycon's shares. Specific financial terms were not disclosed.

"This acquisition represents an excellent opportunity for Abbott to quickly establish a presence in low-volume clinical chemistry throughout the world," said Miles D. White, senior vice president, diagnostic operations at Abbott.

"Alycon's family of analyzers allows Abbott to compete against older product offerings in the benchtop chemistry segment. Additionally, with Abbott's sales presence in fast-growing emerging markets, and in alternate sites in the United States, the Alcyon analyzers position us well for future growth."

"The agreement with Abbott will help us reach new heights in competing on a global basis," said Serge Covain, president and founder of Alcyon.

The worldwide market for clinical chemistry is estimated to be $3.7 billion with growth rates of 1 to 2 percent. The low-volume segment accounts for over $500 million. The majority of sales for this segment are in developed countries and are growing at 1 to 3 percent a year.

However, emerging markets are showing annual growth rates of 11 to 13 percent for low-volume clinical chemistry. Clinical chemistry comprises dozens of tests ranging from glucose, electrolytes, enzymes, proteins and lipids.

These substances are measured as overall indicators of human health status.

Start a business with CLC training

The 10-week training program will be held from 6:30 to 10 p.m. on Mondays from March 3 to May 5 in room C002B at the Grayslake Campus, 19351 W. Washington St.

The 30-hour curriculum provides comprehensive training in management skills and business planning aimed at reducing business failure. Taught by successful entrepreneurs and business professionals, the program will cover such topics as market research, business planning, record keeping, sales strategies, finances, marketing, taxes and small business management.

The program is sponsored by the Dept. of Community Education and Economic Development in cooperation with the United States Small Business Administration and the Illinois Dept. of Commerce and Community Affairs. The cost is $275 per person. To register, call 223-3622 or fax 223-9371.

Two Lake County businesses honored for recycling/waste reduction activities

Practicing the 4 R's has moved from the classroom to the boardroom. Abbott Laboratories and Baxter Healthcare Round Lake Technology Park (RLTP) are receiving 4R Awards from the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) for putting into practice the principles of waste reduction, reuse, recycling and recovery, or buying recycled.

For its leadership in the area of waste reduction, Baxter RLTP receive a 4R Award from SWALCO on Jan. 28. Abbott received its 4R Award for recycling activities conducted at the company's Lake County facilities on Jan. 30 at their recycling facility in the Lorrell Building on Rte. 41 in Lake Bluff.

Baxter Healthcare-Round Lake Technology Park is receiving a 4R Award from SWALCO for implementing a well-rounded waste reduction program at this facility. The facility provides many opportunities for waste reduction, through employee education programs, inventory control and product engineering design, packaging reduction task forces, "Waste Information Training" and the annual Environmental Fair. Baxter RLTP created a source reduction policy aimed at reducing the amount of waste sent for disposal from this facility by 25 percent by the year 2000. The changes made through these source reduction efforts resulted in a 24.5 percent reduction in the amount of waste shipped to the landfill within the first nine months.

Baxter RLTP has incorporated not only waste reduction principles in its daily operations, but also focuses on waste reuse, recycling and utilizing recycled-content products. The facility operates an integrated recycling program focusing on the many types of plastic waste generated throughout the site.

Abbott Labs is receiving a 4R Award from SWALCO for implementing a comprehensive recycling program for the Lake County corporate headquarters. By developing an infrastructure for dealing with recyclables generated by its Lake County corporate facilities, Abbott diverted 5,600 tons of recyclable material in 1995 alone. The company also has developed a sound recycling program for less common materials, such as used furniture, light fixtures, and vehicle batteries.

Abbott also works to close the recycling loop. Many of the paper products procured for employee use are made from recycled content. Buying products made from the materials sent for recycling is a key component to completing the recycling loop.

Both of these winners are great examples of how the principles of the 4R's can be incorporated into the corporate operating arena. "Employee education is the key to the solid waste management efforts developed and carried out at Baxter RLTP and Abbott Labs," said Monica Duebbert, Public Information Coordinator for SWALCO. "All of our 1996 4R Award winners have shown exceptional initiative and leadership in coming up with alternative solutions to creating trash."

SWALCO developed the 4R Award Program to recognize outstanding solid waste management programs operating in businesses and organizations around Lake County. The program is divided into four categories: Reduce, Reuse, Recycle and Recover. The program is new for 1996 and will be offered on an annual basis to private and non-profit entities located in Lake County.

"Recognizing these efforts is an important step in encouraging less reliance on landfilling and increasing awareness of alternatives," said Duebbert.

The Park District of Highland Park also received a 4R Award from SWALCO for implementing waste reuse efforts.

For more information about the 4R Award Program, contact Monica Duebbert at SWALCO, 336-9340 or by E-mail: swalco@co.lake.il.us.

Carousel

1969 Otto retired and Don bought his interest in the business. Herman Hahn passed away in the late '50s, leaving his son, Carl in charge of Prim Cleaners until 1995 when he sold the business and opened Slate Street Billiards in Vernon Hills. With Don's son, Dale having been lured to the scientific field (he's a bio-chemist) and Carl Hahn in the billiards biz, the sale of Carousel Cleaners definitely ends the era of the Hahn/Meyer cleaning business. New owners, Raquel and Jerry Goldsand, former owners of Green Street Cleaners in McHenry will be offering tailor and repair work along with the cleaning and the Meyer family wishes them well.

Dori joins her dad in retirement along with 5-year-old Melanie, who having "worked" at the plant since she was two weeks old, is planning to retire to pursue the "field of education" she'll be starting kindergarten in the fall.

There was always a small town, "come-on-in-neighbors" feel with a visit to Carousel. Not unlike stopping at a friend's house for coffee and a chat while she pressed your jacket. A sit down, put your feet up kind of place.

Everyone has a Carousel story to tell, Don Meyer has a trunk full. For example there was the time a local lady rushed in early one morning, pleading for Don to press her skirt immediately. "Sure," the genial gent complied. With that she whipped off the garment and handed it to him!

Not content with just being a real customer pleaser and a strong believer in going "the extra mile" in public relations, over the years Carousel has done a great deal for the community too; free cleaning of uniforms for the police department, helping Pullman Players with costume cleaning and dressing room set-up, supporting school and civic activities and keeping choir robes, altar cloths etc. cleaned for the Wauconda Federated Church of which the family are members. Yes, an era has indeed ended in more ways than one.

And what's in store for Mr. Meyer now that he is a man of leisure? With the exception of a brief stint in the Navy, his whole life has revolved around clothes cleaning. Well, speaking of "revolving" one of the projects, Don intends to undertake is the refinishing of the old Carousel horse that sat in the front of the store for years. "After that I'm just going to take it easy, he smiles." "And do all the things I could never do before."

The Carousel horse that defined the cleaners for so long will soon rest in the Meyer family room amidst its Carousel motif, as if to say, yes, it's truly so, "What goes around, comes around."

Negotiating

tant a deal is to you. If you're buying a house and you let the owner know "this is the perfect house," be prepared to pay full price or expect very little downward negotiation.

• Smile and say no until your tongue bleeds. This is a great line from Harvey MacKay's book "Swim With The Sharks." There are two important points. First, smile and be courteous when you negotiate. Developing an adversarial attitude will weaken your position. Second, learn to say no and mean it. If a position or request is unacceptable to you say no, and keep on saying it. Be polite, but firm.

• Show the value of what you're proposing to the other side. If your offer is a win-win offer, point out the benefits and advantages in the negotiation process. The other folks may already be aware of the benefits, but you can't be sure. So show them how they benefit.

In summary, the best negotiators find out what the other side wants or needs and then finds a way to help them achieve it, while at the same time furthering their best interests and accomplishing their own goals. You can often get exactly what you want by helping others get what they want.

Griefnotes

How can I prevent difficulties from grief?

Many who confront grief for the first time are surprised at the intensity of their feelings. Grief is most often associated with the death of a loved one but it can also result from divorce, loss of bodily function, moving or from child growing up and leaving home. Because grief is poorly understood, those who have not experienced it personally can be poor helpers. By learning about grief ahead of time we can more capably assist friends in their time of need and can more readily understand the intensity of feelings when death affects our families. Take time to read and inquire about grief and learn ways to assist those in need of support.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,

I am actively seeking employment after many years. I have been self-employed in the home and therefore out of touch with the interview process as I once knew it. Friends have told me to be prepared to answer questions asked of me during the interview. I was hoping you could offer some insight as to what types of questions are often asked and a tip or two. Thank you in advance.

R.B.-Lake Forest

Dear R.B.,

Today's job market is very competitive and therefore requires more than just showing up for an interview. Prepare yourself in any way that you can. Here is a list of some of the most common asked questions we have found. Keep in mind that they are not in any particular order and not guaranteed to be asked since no two interviews are the same.

1. What are your strengths?
2. What are your weaknesses?
3. Why are you interested in working for this company?
4. Do you have references?
5. What did you like best about your last job?
6. What did you like least about your last position?
7. Why did you leave your last employer?

I have always found it best before answering any question during the interview, stop briefly, pull your thoughts together, take a deep breath and be sure what comes out is what you want the interviewer to hear. After the interview it is always wise to make some notes about what took place. The reason for this is that quite often it may be days or weeks before you are contacted by the company. If you've been avidly interviewing you may forget details or be confused as to which details belong to which interview. This includes the name of the person who interviewed you. You will want to remember the name of course because you don't want to forget that follow-up letter or card that you should send out to each prospective employer. The soul purpose of this letter or card is to thank them for taking the time to meet with you and at the same time, allowing you the opportunity to express your further interest in their company. I hope these tips help. Good luck.

Dear Search,

While on an interview recently I asked the person interviewing me for his business card. A friend told me that I was wrong for asking for it. I don't see any harm in it do you?

E.H.-Libertyville

Dear E.H.,

Ask away! It is the professional thing to do. If someone doesn't want you to have their card...they'll just say no!

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

Letters can be sent to Nancy Sakol c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268, Grayslake, IL 60030

"SHELLY" is an adorable, female mostly sheltie mix. At three to four years of age, this sweet dog has her puppy problems and has her whole life ahead of her. Mostly black with tan highlights, Shelly has a gorgeous curly thick coat, perk ears, a lovely face and gentle eyes that tell you all you need to know about her heart. Shelly has a true sheltie (mini-collie) personality. These dogs are sweet, loyal, calm, but playful, incredibly docile and affectionate. Shelly knows basic commands such as sit, stay and come. A small mid-size, she will fit beautifully with a loving family. Eager to please and very easy to train, this smart, pretty dog has been at the shelter since August of 1996. Look into her eyes, take her out for a walk, and then fall in love with a truly wonderful dog. Cage 23. ALL DOGS BENEFIT FROM BASIC HOUSEBREAKING & OBEDIENCE TRAINING WHICH HELPS BOND DOG TO OWNER.
